Prices of sugar cool at mills, retail relief may come next fortnight

SANDIP DAS & VIVEAT SUSAN PINTO
New Delhi/Mumbai, August 28

RETAIL SUGAR PRICES are expected to ease over the next fortnight as a sharp fall in factory-gate prices begins to work its way through the supply chain, offering consumers some relief ahead of the festive season. Ex-mill sugar prices in major producing states have fallen nearly 20% in a week, declining to around ₹5,000 per quintal in Uttar Pradesh and ₹5,300 a quintal in Maharashtra on Friday, from about ₹6,500 a quintal last week.

The correction follows the Centre's decision to allow duty-free imports of 1 million tonnes of raw sugar, alongside a wider crackdown on hoarding and a move to cap sugar inventories held by bulk industrial users at 15 days.

The government's measures have helped ease supply concerns and speculative buying, although food companies initially opposed the inventory cap, arguing it could disrupt production.

FINANCE MINISTRY TO START CONSULTATIONS ON OCTOBER 12

Budget FY28 may focus on realistic estimates, restraint

PRASANTA SAHU
New Delhi, August 28

THE GOVERNMENT WILL kick-start internal consultations for the Union Budget 2027-28 on October 12, with the exercise scheduled to continue until mid-November. The meetings, chaired by Expenditure Secretary V Vualnam, will review expenditure requirements, receipts, scheme approvals and fiscal priorities before final allocations are determined.

Inputs gathered via these interactions with ministries and departments will be critical for fixing Budget Estimates (BE) 2027-28 and Revised Estimates (RE) for 2026-27 later.

The West Asia conflict provides additional context for this year's exercise. Prolonged supply chain issues are already significantly impacting various receipts and expenditure components for the current year despite a recent let-up; these issues could potentially spill over to the next year.

Financial Advisers (FAs) have been asked to ensure that all necessary information is correctly entered in the Union Budget Information System (UBIS) by October 6, 2026, sources said.

This year's Budget exercise places particular emphasis on realistic and accurate projections. A "realistic projection for Revised Estimates (RE) 2026-27 and Budget Estimates (BE) 2027-28 is a prerequisite" for sound fiscal management, according to the Budget Circular issued by the Budget Division of the Department of Economic Affairs.

Submission of information relating to non-tax revenue, interest receipts, loan recoveries, capital receipts, interest payments and loans to employees is due by October 6, 2026, followed by estimates of tax receipts by October 15, 2026. Disclosure statements under the FRBM framework are to be submitted by November 6, 2026. Data entry in the UBIS relating to RE/BE ceilings is required within 7 days of completion of the pre-Budget meetings. The final ceilings will reflect on UBIS by the end of December 2026, with the Detailed Demand for Grants (DDG) to be finalised within one week of the final ceilings being intimated through UBIS. Notes on Demand for Expenditure are to be submitted within one day of filing the DDG (Final) in UBIS, while material for statements to be appended to the Demands for Grants and Expenditure Profile, as well as the Output-Outcome Monitoring Framework, is due within three days of filing the DDG (Final). The estimates of GDP from the CSO are expected by 7 January 2027.

Ministries and Departments have been advised to estimate expenditure carefully so as to avoid routine or frequent mid-year appropriations. "Minimal mid-year additional resource requirements/mid-year reappropriations reflect good budgeting," according to the circular. While preparing estimates, priority must first be given to committed and continuing expenditure before provisions are made for new schemes.

7.7 mn silver jewellery get hallmarking in last 1 year

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 28

OVER 7.7 MILLION silver jewellery and artefacts have been hallmarked with the HUID number since the six-digit number was introduced from September last year, with southern states leading in volumes, according to the Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS).

Silver hallmarked has been voluntary since October 2005, and from September 2025 onwards, hallmarked silver articles carry a six-digit Hallmark Unique Identification (HUID) number, enabling buyers to verify purity.

"Since the launch of the Silver HUID portal on 1 September 2025, over 7.7 million silver jewellery pieces have already been hallmarked with HUID," a BIS statement said on Friday.

SHARE OF GOLD IN HOUSEHOLD ASSETS RISES

THE SHARE OF gold in India's household assets rose significantly in FY26 while the property share reduced, amid surging prices of the yellow metal, according to a Jefferies note.

Gold holdings accounted for nearly a quarter of household wealth in the year, even as these are increasingly being monetised through gold-backed loans. Gold loans now account for 7% of total bank and non-banking financial company credit. Still, they are only 5% of the value of household gold holdings. Assuming a 65% loan-to-value ratio and additional loans through the unorganised channels, only 15% of gold holdings are currently monetised, the note says.

Centre puts 4.1 mn homes on LPG-to-PNG fast track

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, August 28

THE GOVERNMENT HAS put more than 4.1 million households on its immediate LPG-to-PNG conversion radar, but the switch to piped gas remains slow, with only about 20% of eligible consumers applying so far despite an intensive outreach drive triggered by supply disruptions during the West Asia conflict.

Of the 2.17 million LPG consumers identified as having access to a PNG network and eligible to switch, only 440,000 have applied, while connections of 330,000 consumers, or about 15%, have been activated. These consumers are spread across more than 72,000 housing societies in 311 geographical areas where PNG networks are available through oil companies and public and private city gas distribution entities.

The wider conversion pool also includes around 2 million consumers who have already registered for PNG connections, taking the immediate target base to more than 4.1 million households. The petroleum ministry has asked city gas distribution (CGD) compa-

■ Only 440,000 of 2.17 million eligible consumers applied for PNG

■ Over 33,000 camps, 2.1 million WhatsApp messages and 800,000 notices have driven only 140,000 LPG surrenders in five months

■ India imported about 20 MT of LPG in 2025-26, exposing consumers to West Asia-linked supply disruptions

WhatsApp messages, around 800,000 received physical notices, and over 33,000 camps were organised to encourage the shift. Yet, in the last five months, only a little over 140,000 households surrendered their LPG connections.

The push intensified during March and April when the West Asia conflict disrupted supplies through the Strait of Hormuz and tightened LPG availability. India consumed around 33 million tonne (MT) of LPG in 2025-26, of which only about 13 MT was produced domestically, with the balance met through imports, largely from West Asia.

In March, the petroleum ministry ordered faster pipeline infrastructure creation, easier approvals and a stronger LPG-to-PNG shift to improve energy security. CGD and oil companies were also asked to contact LPG consumers with access to PNG networks and encourage them to switch within three months. According to the latest Petroleum and Natural Gas Regulatory Board data, India had achieved 17.4 million domestic PNG connections till June against a pro-rata target of 44.1 million, translating into 39% achievement.

Onion buffer stock quality 'good': Consumer affairs secy

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 28

THE QUALITY OF the Centre's onion buffer stock is "good", Consumer Affairs Secretary Nidhi Khare said on Friday, asserting that for the first time this year the Central Warehousing Corporation (CWC) was roped in for storage to ensure better shelf life of the commodity.

Khare refuted reports claiming that 30% of the 121,000 tonne onion buffer maintained by the government had rotten. "Nothing of that kind has happened. Quality is good," she said.

Unlike previous years, when the onion buffer was stored with traders, the responsibility this time was entrusted to the CWC, with a third party assessing the quality of the stock at regular intervals, the secretary said.

Explaining the science behind onion storage, Khare said the vegetable contains 90% water and retains its quality for three months post-harvest, after which it keeps shrinking every month as water vapourises. The extent of spoilage, she said, depends

Supply squeeze, exports lift sugar prices

Govt introduces fortnightly quotas

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, August 28

TWO SUCCESSIVE YEARS of consumption exceeding production, and a delay in stopping exports despite a looming shortage have contributed to the sharp spike in sugar prices in the last one month. This forced the government to announce imports of sweetener for the first time in a decade.

The prospects for the opening stock of sugar in the 2026-27 season (October-September) have dipped to only 3.5 million tonne (MT), the lowest in the last decade. Even a dip in the amount of sweetener diverted for ethanol production could not address the supply deficit.

Sugar production declined by 27% to around 28.1 MT in the 2025-26 season from 35.8 MT in 2021-22. Consumption increased marginally according to industry estimates to 28.7 MT from 27.3 MT in the last five seasons.

The food ministry also announced the introduction of a fortnightly sugar allocation system from September, replacing the existing monthly quota system. The mills would be required to sell at least 40% of the allocation in the first week and the remaining quantity in the succeeding week.

In the last five years, the quantity of sugar diverted towards ethanol production has seen a nearly four-fold increase from 0.8 MT in 2019-20 to around 3 MT in the 2025-26 sugar season, according to analysis by Crisil. "The resultant supply tightness, along with rising cane costs driven by higher fair and remunerative price (FRP) and state advisory price (SAP), supported a sharp increase in sugar prices," Crisil stated.

Ruling out attributing the recent increase in sugar prices to the diversion of sugar for ethanol production, a food ministry official said that the share of sugar diverted for ethanol has declined from around 12% in 2022-23 to around 9% in 2025-26. "Moreover, nearly three-fourths of the ethanol produced in the country now comes from grains, particularly maize," according to an official note.

The government attributed the sharp spike in sugar prices to factors including a fall in domestic production due to weather-related damages, a demand spike ahead of the festive season, high global prices and hoarding by some producers. The government allowed the export of sweetener after the Indian Sugar and Bio-energy Manufacturers Association (ISMA) projected a net output (including ethanol diversion) of 34.9 MT in its first preliminary estimate released in July 2025 for the 2025-26 season (October-September). However, ISMA revised the output downward to 32.4 MT in its third estimate for the current sugar season released in February 2026, citing lesser crop yield because of adverse weather conditions.

While around 0.8 MT of sugar has been exported this current sugar season, the government banned sugar exports in May 2026 to keep domestic prices stable amid expectations of lower sugar closing inventory and a possible drop in projection. "Overestimation of initial projections led to allowing exports of sweetener," a source said. The ministry stated that sugar production during the 2025-26 season is expected to be 11% less, at 30.6 million tonnes (MT), compared to the initial estimate of around 34.3 MT.

TIGHTER LABELS FOR FOOD ITEMS ON THE CARDS

FOOD SAFETY REGULATOR FSSAI has proposed front-of-pack warning labels on packaged food and drinks, reversing its position following growing public anger about a lack of strict labels to highlight high sugar, fat or salt in items. FSSAI has proposed a red-coloured hexagonal shape for food products which are high in any two or more nutrients — saturated fat, sugar or salt — it said in a Supreme Court filing on Friday.

DRI SEARCHES PLANT OWNED BY WAAREE ARM

OFFICIALS OF THE Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI) have conducted a search at a manufacturing plant of Sangam Solar One, a subsidiary of Waaree Energies, in Navsari, Gujarat. The search on Thursday was related to the classification of certain stainless-steel pipes and tubes imported under a government scheme.

REGISTRATIONS CROSS 200,000 MILESTONE FOR THE FIRST TIME

Electric car sales exceed last year's total in just 8 months

NITIN KUMAR
New Delhi, August 28

ELECTRIC PASSENGER VEHICLE sales in the first eight months of 2026 overtook last year's total figure, and in the process crossed the registration milestone of 200,000 in a calendar year for the first time.

According to Vahan data, registrations reached 212,191 units during January-August, 8.4% higher than the 195,802 electric passenger vehicles registered in the entire 2025.

The accelerated adoption of electric cars was driven by a wider choice of models and increasing participation from both established and new automakers, industry executives said. The increase in sales also translated into a higher share of EVs in the overall car market. EVs accounted for 6.2% of total passenger vehicle registrations between January and August, compared with 4.3% in the entire 2025. Total car registrations stood at around 3.42 million during January-August.

TATA MOTORS MAINTAINS LEAD

Industry executives said the increase in the number of models available across price segments has been an important factor behind the faster adoption of electric cars. The expansion of EV portfolios by established manufacturers such as Tata Motors and Mahindra & Mahindra, the entry of Maruti Suzuki into the segment and the arrival of new players such as VinFast have given consumers more choices, they said.

"The market is moving from an early-adopter phase towards a more mainstream phase as consumers now have more options across segments and price points," an industry executive said. The increase in fuel prices and concerns among consumers about the long-term impact of E20 petrol on internal-combustion engine vehicles have also contributed to interest in alternative powertrains, sector experts said. However, they added that purchase economics, charging infrastructure and the availability of models suited to different consumer requirements will remain key to sustaining EV adoption.

While the overall EV market is expanding rapidly, industry executives said the market remains concentrated in a handful of manufacturers and models. The next phase of growth is likely to depend on how quickly automakers introduce products in mass-market segments and whether EVs can become competitive with petrol and hybrid vehicles on upfront cost as well as total cost of ownership.

TVS Motor names Peyman Kargar as CEO from January

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, August 28

TVS MOTOR COMPANY on Friday appointed Peyman Kargar as its director and chief executive officer, with the incumbent KN Radhakrishnan set to step down on January 27, 2027.

Radhakrishnan will subsequently serve as a non-executive director until the company's annual general meeting scheduled for July 2027.

The leadership transition comes after a strong year for TVS Motor, which sold 5.9 million vehicles globally in FY26 and recorded 30% growth in revenue. Kargar, currently president of the company's international business, will take charge as TVS Motor looks to build on its growth in India and overseas markets. Kargar has more than three decades of experience in the automotive industry across Europe, Asia, Africa and West Asia, spanning product development and research & development, manufacturing, quality, sales and marketing.

His international business portfolio has become an increasingly important contributor to TVS Motor's global expansion. The business currently accounts for 29% of the company's sales volume and is growing at 33%, according to the company. As CEO, Kargar will focus on product innovation, premiumisation and expansion into developed markets, while strengthening the company's technology and artificial intelligence capabilities.

"This appointment marks an important step for TVS Motor Company as we prepare for the future," Chairman Sudarshan Venu said, adding that Kargar had "deep industry experience, strategic vision and a strong understanding of customers and markets". Kargar said he would build on the company's existing momentum while focusing on technology leadership, AI capabilities, quality and customer centricity. Radhakrishnan said he would support a smooth transition and expressed confidence in Kargar's ability to lead the company.

Meta's Sandhya Devanathan to join OpenAI

ASHUTOSH MISHRA
New Delhi, August 28

META'S VICE PRESIDENT and head for India and Southeast Asia Sandhya Devanathan is leaving the social media giant after a decade to join OpenAI as vice president for Southeast Asia and Australia, as the ChatGPT maker steps up its expansion across the Asia-Pacific region.

Devanathan will be OpenAI's most senior leader in Southeast Asia and Australia in a newly created role, with responsibility for consumer growth, enterprise adoption, partnerships, regulatory engagement and operations. Based in Singapore, she will report to Kiran Mani, OpenAI's managing director for Asia Pacific.

The appointment comes as OpenAI builds out its regional operations amid rising adoption of its AI tools among consumers, enterprises and developers. Over the past two years, the company has opened offices in Singapore, Tokyo, Seoul, Sydney and Delhi and has been expanding its regional leadership team. OpenAI has also been sharpening its focus on India, one of its priority markets. In June, the company appointed Prabhjeet Singh as managing director for India, while its first New Delhi office opened in November 2025. The company has been stepping up partnerships with enterprises and developers in India while increasing engagement with policymakers.

OpenAI CEO Sam Altman has repeatedly identified India as a key market for the company, citing the country's rapid adoption of AI. Devanathan brings more than 25 years of experience across technology and financial services. She joined Meta in 2016 and went on to hold several leadership positions across the region, including leading the company's Asia Pacific gaming business and helping expand its presence in Singapore and Vietnam.

In a LinkedIn post announcing her departure, Devanathan described the decision as bittersweet and said she would take a short break before starting her next exciting chapter. OpenAI did not immediately disclose her joining date.

Gnani launches AI stack for users' own systems

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, August 28

BENGALURU-BASED STARTUP GNANI AI on Friday launched Gnani Artha, a sovereign AI stack that it says will allow Indian enterprises and government institutions to use artificial intelligence for tasks involving Indian languages and sensitive information without having to send that data outside their own systems.

Vice President of India CP Radhakrishnan unveiled the platform at an event in New Delhi, saying India's approach to AI should be open, affordable, and accessible.

Gnani Artha brings together two of the company's existing products — Evon v3.3, a 30-billion-parameter AI model trained across 11 Indian languages, and Plexus, a platform that allows AI agents to carry out tasks across business processes.

The significance of the combination is less about the size of the AI model and more about where and how it can be used. For an Indian bank, for instance, the system could process a loan application containing documents in a regional language, bank statements and other financial records, and use AI to identify inconsistencies. The same capability could be deployed within the bank's own infrastructure, rather than sending customer data to an external AI service. This is particularly relevant for banks, insurers and government agencies that deal with large volumes of sensitive information and face requirements around where such data can be stored and processed. Evon v3.3 is available as open weights and can run on a single node, allowing institutions to deploy it in their own data centres or private cloud environments, it said.

The company is also positioning the model as a lower-cost option for processing Indian-language data. It has rebuilt the model's tokeniser — the system that breaks text into units that an AI model can process — specifically for Indian scripts. Gnani said this allows Evon v3.3 to use about 20% fewer tokens per Indian-language word than the tokeniser used by the GPT-5 family and less than half the tokens required by byte-level tokenisers used by DeepSeek, Llama and Qwen. That matters because AI models incur computing costs as they process more tokens. Using fewer tokens can therefore reduce the cost of running AI applications, particularly when they are processing thousands or millions of documents or conversations. Gnani said the lower token requirement also enables faster responses and more usable context for each query.

IndiGo Ventures to invest in Sarvam AI

FE BUREAU
Bengaluru, August 28

NEWLY MINTED AI unicorn Sarvam is set to raise an undisclosed amount in its ongoing Series B funding from IndiGo Ventures, the corporate venture capital arm of IndiGo Airlines announced on Friday. Earlier this month, the full-stack sovereign AI startup had secured $75 million from AI chipmaking giant Nvidia and Glade Brook Capital, signalling growing investor interest and adoption push from across sectors.

"Aviation is a powerful setting for enterprise AI because it combines millions of customer interactions with complex, time-sensitive operations. IndiGo brings the domain depth and scale needed to identify where AI can create real value. Together, we can develop systems that are useful in production and build a stronger template for enterprise AI in India," Pratyush Kumar, co-founder of Sarvam, said in a statement.

The investment is an extension of a dynamic that already existed. IndiGo and Sarvam were working together to build AI applications to improve customer experience, streamline operational workflows and boost employee productivity levels. "The investment creates a long-term platform for accelerating AI-led innovation and operational excellence at IndiGo," the statement noted.

"Artificial intelligence is fast becoming a foundational capa-

Sarvam has unveiled plans to build a trillion-parameter AI model and is racing to fulfil that promise within the next few months.

Lightspeed: Globally competitive Indian model likely by next year

A GLOBALLY COMPETITIVE homegrown Indian AI model is set to be released by next year, according to venture capital firm Lightspeed.

India's sovereign AI platform Sarvam AI is planning a 1-trillion parameter model in the next six months. While the biggest models from the US' Anthropic and OpenAI and China's Moonshot and Alibaba Group Holding are larger, that progress shows Indian contenders' ambition. "That will be a very competitive model anywhere globally," Hemant Mohapatra, a Lightspeed partner, said. "We've got to build the best models in performance, cost and usability." Lightspeed was an early backer of Indian unicorns like Sarvam AI and Emergent, as well as other AI startups like Portkey and Composio. About 80-90% of the VC's deals in India are now in the AI space, compared with just about 20% three to four years ago, Mohapatra said.

Mohapatra said India's unique challenges mean it needs custom, homegrown AI services that can't just be "bolted on" by software solutions built by companies abroad. "You have to build something locally to be able to serve something locally."

Language is a key challenge for AI rollout in India as the country's vast population speaks nearly two dozen official languages and more than a hundred dialects. Affordability, Mohapatra said, is another consideration. "India needs to be serviced at scale at a lower price point," he said. —BLOOMBERG

DIVERSIFICATION TO DRIVE GROWTH

■ Atomberg Technologies has filed papers for IPO to raise ₹450 crore

■ It plans to invest the capital in research and development, brand building and debt repayment

■ Atomberg invested ₹86.79 crore, or 6.71% of revenue, in R&D in FY26, compared with an industry average of less than 1%

■ Its fan business generated ₹1,152.53 crore in external revenue in FY26, accounting for 89.08% of consolidated turnover from cables into fans, lighting and switches. These companies, however, had profitable core businesses to support the cost of entering new categories.

Atomberg is attempting to diversify while its own core business is still relatively concentrated. Its fan business generated ₹1,152.53 crore in external revenue in FY26, accounting for 89.08% of consolidated turnover, while segment profit before exceptional items nearly doubled to ₹135.30 crore. According to Redseer data cited in the prospectus, Atomberg has a 46.08% share of the premium fan market and 16.81% of the online fan market.

The fan category itself has considerable room for growth. Brushless DC (BLDC) motors account for only 17% of the ₹21,400-crore fan market, a share Redseer expects to reach 38-41% by FY31. Atomberg's assembly lines at Chakan, Pune, operated at 67.42% utilisation in FY26. The company, therefore, is expanding into adjacent categories even though its principal business has a significant growth opportunity.

Its strategy is to reuse the technology developed for fans across products. Atomberg invested ₹86.79 crore, or 6.71% of revenue, in R&D in FY26, compared with an industry average of less than 1%, according to estimates cited in the prospectus. Its proprietary motors, electronics and control algorithms are being adapted for mixer grinders, juicers and chimneys. Its other products draw on capabilities in filtration, connectivity and thermal engineering. There are some early signs of traction. Revenue from kitchen appliances increased 6.4 times to ₹124.04 crore in FY26, while the segment loss narrowed from 277.55% of revenue in FY24 to 34.89% in FY26. Further, 28.50% of fan buyers purchased another Atomberg product, indicating scope to sell multiple categories to the same customer.

The question for Atomberg, therefore, is whether its engineering-led model can make diversification materially faster and less capital-intensive than the acquisition-led approach of established players. Its proposed joint venture with Voltas to manufacture AC compressors as well as its expansion into components show that the strategy extends beyond a handful of adjacent consumer products.

VODAFONE ADDS 240,114 SUBSCRIBERS IN JULY

Airtel goes past Jio in mobile user addition

OJASVI GUPTA
New Delhi, August 28

BHARTI AIRTEL TOPPED the telecom industry in mobile subscriber additions in July, adding 2.69 million users during the month, narrowly ahead of market leader Reliance Jio's 2.45 million, according to monthly subscription data released by the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (Trai) on Friday.

Vodafone Idea (Vi) added 240,114 subscribers, while state-run Bharat Sanchar Nigam (BSNL) gained 168,874. The industry's overall wireless subscriber base rose to 1.282 billion at the end of July from 1.282 billion a month earlier. Jio continued to lead in total mobile subscribers, with its base rising to 506.03 million, followed by Airtel at 489.48 million and Vi at 199.06 million.

Private operators accounted for 92.75% of the wireless market at the end of July, while BSNL and MTNL together held the remaining 7.25%. The growth also extended to broadband, with total broadband subscriptions rising to 1.09 billion from 1.08 billion in June, a monthly increase of 0.64%. Jio remained the largest broadband provider with 535.12 million subscribers, followed by Airtel at 384.23 million and Vi at 129.96 million. Both urban and rural markets recorded net additions during the month.

Fixed connectivity also continued to expand. Wired broadband subscribers rose 0.90% to 48.14 million from 47.71 million, while fixed wireless access (FWA) subscriptions, including 5G FWA and unlicensed band radio (UBR)-based connections, increased 2.60% to 18.84 million from 18.36 million.

Blackstone entities to sell up to 25% stake in Knowledge Realty Trust for ₹12,000 cr

FOUR ENTITIES BELONGING to Blackstone's sponsor group of Knowledge Realty Trust will sell up to 1.11 billion units, or 25.03%, of the real estate investment trust's unit capital, through an offer for sale (OFS).

The sellers will initially offer up to 740 million units, representing 16.69% of the unit capital, with an option to sell an additional 370 million units, or 8.34%, if there is sufficient demand. At the floor price of ₹108 a unit, the base offer is worth about ₹7,992 crore, while the full offer would be valued at nearly ₹11,988 crore. The OFS is being undertaken to help Knowledge

Realty Trust meet the minimum public unitholding requirement prescribed under Sebi's REIT regulations.

The offer for non-retail investors will open on August 31 while retail investors can bid on September 1. At least 10% of the offer will be reserved for retail investors. —FE BUREAU

Mumbai, Delhi among top 10 APAC logistics markets

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, August 28

THREE INDIAN CITIES — Mumbai, Delhi-NCR and Bengaluru — ranked among the Asia-Pacific's top 10 markets for logistics rental growth in the first half of 2026, according to a report by property consultant Knight Frank.

During January-June, Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR) posted a strong rental growth of 5.3% year-on-year, Delhi-NCR 5.2% and Bengaluru 4.4%, it said. Prime property rents stood at ₹26 per square foot per month in MMR, ₹22.30 in Delhi-NCR, and ₹23.50 in Bengaluru. Vacancy declined to 13.5% in Mumbai, 14.7% in Delhi-NCR, and 17.6% in Bengaluru, the report stated, adding these markets remained balanced. The 12-month rental outlook pointed towards further growth in Mumbai and Delhi-NCR, and remained positive for Bengaluru.

Shishir Bajjal, international partner, chairman and managing director, Knight Frank India, said, "The healthy rental growth recorded across Mumbai, Delhi-NCR and Bengaluru reflects sustained occupier demand, even as the market becomes increasingly selective about location, connectivity and asset quality. With occupiers placing greater emphasis on operational efficiency and modern, institutional-grade facilities, we expect India's logistics real estate market to remain on a steady growth trajectory in the near to medium term."

Gen Z's NEET factor

The labour market situation for youth in the country indeed remains dismal

HERE IS NO doubt that India faces a serious challenge of dealing with joblessness especially among the youth. They remain restive due to the limited avenues for gainful employment. The latest official current weekly status estimate of unemployment for those between 15-29 years of age is almost three times higher at 15.9% than the overall rate of 5.4% in April-June 2026. However, there are questions whether the unemployment rate captures labour market distress as job seekers may get discouraged by the dearth of gainful employment and even opt out of the labour force. A less debated but far more powerful metric of idleness or labour under-utilisation is the share of youth not in employment, education, or training (NEET). The latest current weekly status estimate of NEET youth was as high as 29.7% in January-December 2025.

Unless career pathways are established, a substantial reserve army of NEET youth portends serious strains in the country's social fabric. The official think tank, Niti Aayog, put out a number of 87 million as the NEET cohort based on the data of the National Sample Survey 78th round collected during the Covid-19 pandemic in 2020-21. More recent estimates indicate much higher numbers of 92 to 99 million. Although it is true that this metric cannot be misinterpreted as constituting the unemployed or an addition to the youth unemployment rate, the NEET youth cohort does include the unemployed as also those who are not part of the labour force. The all-India NEET youth estimate of 29.7% is 6% unemployed plus 23.7% out of the labour force. This is a comprehensive measure of youth who have chosen not to participate in the labour market.

India's NEET youth vastly exceed what is observed in developed nations like the UK where 981,000 young people, who were not found in employment, education or training, have been described as a "lost generation". There are similarities as the NEETs in both nations are educated; 15% of this cohort in the UK, for instance, has degrees. Around 57.5% of the NEET cohort of 15-29 years of age in India has higher than secondary levels of education with a 23.8% share of graduates and postgraduates at an all-India level in 2025. The share of graduates and postgraduates is as high as 49% in the southern state of Tamil Nadu. However, 69.3% of youth have not received technical or vocational training. As the NEETs include the unemployed, clearly the policy challenge is to ensure their transition back to gainful employment.

If the restive youth take to the streets again to protest for better jobs, this would be an existential challenge for the ruling dispensation. Generating more employment for the largest cohort of Gen Z in the world is indeed a systemic imperative. Of course, this entails promoting employment-intensive growth, besides labour reform and incentivising India Inc to invest more to create jobs. As the NEET youth are "constrained by the absence of income and sunk cost of prior education", Niti Aayog rightly advocates provision of subsidised training options, alongside dedicated financial support where constraints are most binding. As the government's skill development initiatives have only modestly promoted employment opportunities, these can take off only with the greater involvement of Indian industry. Unless more job opportunities are opened up, the high levels of youth unemployment and NEETs will keep unrest on the boil.

Where is your happy place? Maybe it's Slovenia

WHAT IF THE secret to happiness was...low expectations?

Most residents of rich, Western countries have relatively high earnings, but many also feel they can't afford a reasonable lifestyle. Americans, for example, are getting richer but also more unhappy. Meanwhile Eastern Europeans, not generally known for their cheery disposition, are most satisfied with their comparatively lower income.

In 2018, research psychologists at Purdue and the University of Virginia compiled data from previous surveys to estimate how much income people needed to be happy. They found that, even after adjusting for purchasing power, people needed more money in richer countries. Recently the same data was adjusted for inflation and compared to average earnings in each country.

Residents of Eastern European countries tend to earn at least 70% of what they think they need to be happy, though it also does not take so much to feel satisfied. Slovenians are the most content with their earnings: Theirs is the only country included in the study where average annual earnings ($42,800) exceed the amount they think they need for a good life ($36,800). One of the few Western countries where people earn more than 70% of what they think they need to feel happy is Luxembourg. The countries where people are most stretched are New Zealand, the UK, and Australia, where earnings only cover about one third of what it costs to be happy.

Of course, happiness is subjective. But what comes through in this research is that the affordability crisis is not just an American phenomenon, nor can it be solved by more government spending. In Sweden, for example, affordability is at least as big an issue as it is in the US, and like in the US one of the main culprits is housing.

Many Western countries have building restrictions and rent controls that make buying housing more expensive.

The other problem, if I can call it that, may just be rising prosperity. As countries get richer, living standards increase — maybe faster than incomes do. It is worth noting that the countries that fall the most short on this "affordable happiness" scale tend to be in Latin America, which feature low levels of both desired and actual income. Again, the point is not that people in richer countries aren't happier — in general, they are — but that the gains from happiness don't keep up with rising income.

The original paper also finds diminishing happiness returns to income, and then actual negative returns: People become happier as they start to earn more, but at a certain point they start becoming less happy as their income rises. The explanation, the authors speculate, could be that once someone's basic needs are met, they become more focused on material goals and social comparisons. Even in Denmark — one of the happiest nations in the world, according to a separate (annual) survey with different methodology — average annual income covers only 66.8% of what people say they need to feel happy.

Capitalism may have made hundreds of millions of people rich and delivered more material wealth than the world has ever seen, but it also moved the goalposts. And market distortions that created shortages and increased prices over the last several years caused a cost-of-living crisis that still afflicts most rich countries.

One tempting conclusion from this research is that we'd all be happier with a simpler, less materialistic life. But this would be the wrong lesson. The desire for more also accelerates progress and contributes to rising living standards. Perhaps some Kiwis would be happier if they moved to Slovenia and experienced a lower cost-of-living on their New Zealand wages. But they might not be so happy if they suddenly got paid like Slovenians.

A better lesson is that it pays to remove the distortions to commerce and economic activity that drive up prices. Nearly all the richer countries where people aren't earning enough to be happy also face ageing populations and big debts, and growth in a lot of Europe is stagnant. That means things could soon get even more expensive — just as a lot of people are getting poorer.

POWER POINT

WITHDRAWING ADS AT THE FIRST HASHTAG HAS BECOME STANDARD OPERATING PROCEDURE. IT NEEDN'T BE

The business of being offended

shyamal.majumdar@expressindia.com

Muslim in-laws organising her baby shower, after threats to store employees; it later pulled an anti-firecracker Diwali film after another backlash. Manyavar was attacked over a campaign questioning kanyadaan, Dabur over a Karva Chauth film featuring a same-sex couple, FabIndia over an Urdu name for a Diwali collection, Sabyasachi over a mangalsutra campaign, Zomato over a reference to the Mahakal temple. In most cases the response was the same: withdraw, modify, regret.

The point is not that Indians are uniquely thin-skinned; every society has people ready to take offence at advertising. What is distinctive here is the predictability of the corporate response. Withdrawal, once an exceptional reaction to exceptional circumstances, now looks like standard operating procedure. And predictable capitulation has a way of guaranteeing repeat business: if a few thousand hashtags reliably bring a national brand to its knees within forty-eight hours, the incentive to manufacture the next round of outrage is obvious.

This should puzzle anyone who knows how advertising gets made. Campaigns of this kind pass through creative development, client approvals, legal vetting, consumer research, and expensive celebrity contracts. A jewellery brand that puts its ambassador in contemporary clothing for a festival film has not stumbled upon the styling by accident; presumably it believed the imagery would appeal to the customers it wanted to reach. Nor can it have been a surprise that someone, somewhere, would object. The puzzle is not that criticism arrived — that was entirely foreseeable. It is that the brand then behaved as though the possibility had never crossed its mind.

It is worth recalling a counter-example. Ahead of Holi in 2019, Hindustan Unilever released Surf Excel's "Rang Laaye Sang", created by Lowe Lintas: a girl uses up her friends' supply of colour so that her Muslim friend can walk unstained to namaaz, promising to return and play Holi afterwards. It was a neat extension of the brand's long-running "dirt is good" positioning. The backlash was immediate — #BoycottSurfExcel trended, critics argued the film subordinated Holi to namaaz, and some called it anti-Hindu. HUL did not withdraw it, did not alter it, did not apologise. It explained the idea — Holi as togetherness, seen through children innocent of adult prejudice — and let the controversy run its course. Seven years on, the boycott calls are forgotten; the film is still cited as an example of purpose-led advertising. The episode established something useful: withdrawal and apology are not inevitable consequences of online outrage. They are corporate choices.

This doesn't mean courage always pays, or that every creative decision must

A brand that will not stand behind its own imagery is asking customers to invest in an identity it is unwilling to defend

Seven streams of capital market reform

SUNIL SANGHAI

Founder & CEO, NovaaOne Capital Pvt. Ltd

AT FICCI'S CAPAM 2026 earlier this week, as policymakers, regulators, market participants, and professionals discussed the next phase of India's capital market journey, what struck me was how much the debate has changed. India is no longer discussing how to build a credible capital market. It already has one. The question now is how to make it more competitive, predictable and responsive to the needs of a rapidly changing economy.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's reference to saptadhara, or seven streams of national strength, provides an apt framework for envisioning our next phase of development. The capital market must be one of the engines that power these streams. If India wants to become a leading economy, it needs a capital market that is not just deep and well-regulated, but also among the easiest and most to raise and invest capital and restructure businesses.

Our foundations are strong: world-class market infrastructure, improved investor protection, robust disclosure standards, and serious regulatory oversight. This gives us the confidence to think about the next stage of reform.

I believe we can make a meaningful difference in seven areas.

First, the primary market should have the same spirit of flexibility that increasingly characterises the secondary market. I earlier wrote about this in the context of what was described as the world's largest IPO, the SpaceX offering. The important lesson was not simply the size of the transaction. It was the speed, flexibility, and efficiency with which an extraordinary transaction could move through the process. I am not suggesting every Indian IPO should be completed in 10 weeks. But we should ask a fundamental question: how do we ensure a good transaction takes only as long as is necessary to achieve the regulatory objective? Capital markets are dynamic. Flexibility is a component of efficiency, not a compromise. Regulation should protect investors and ensure integrity, but it shouldn't turn time into a regulatory cost.

Second, we should simplify IPO disclosure requirements. Indian firms prepare audited financial statements under a rigorous accounting and regulatory framework. In many cases, these should form the core of IPO disclosure, supplemented by targeted reconciliation and enhanced disclosure where necessary. Requiring a separate, fully restated historical financial set can lead to significant costs and delay without necessarily giving investors proportionately greater insight. The objective should be more information that matters, not more paperwork. Investors need clarity, comparability, and material information, not multiple versions of the same financial history.

Third, pre-IPO convertible securities deserve greater flexibility. For outstanding convertible instruments, conversion timing should be brought closer to the start of the book-building process, allowing investors to see price discovery before deciding whether to convert. At present, the structure can require conversion before investors have visibility on the price the market is actually willing to pay. Price discovery is at the heart of a capital market. Regulation should facilitate it rather than force investors to make decisions without the benefit of that information.

Fourth, we should rethink the trigger for open offers in creeping acquisitions. If a promoter is already in control of a listed company, does an acquisition of over 5% in a year need to trigger a full open offer process when there is no change in control? Open offers protect public shareholders when control changes hands. But where control is already established, the same process may not always be proportionate to the underlying risk. The answer is not to weaken investor protection. It is to ensure the regulatory response is aligned with the economic reality of the transaction.

Fifth, there is considerable scope to reduce duplication in corporate restructuring approvals. A listed company merger can be examined by the stock exchanges, reviewed by Sebi, considered by shareholders and creditors, and then subjected to approval before the NCLT. There is nothing wrong with rigorous scrutiny. The issue is whether different institutions are sometimes examining substantially the same questions at different stages. Where the substantive regulatory objective is already being addressed, processes should speak to one another rather than repeat. In capital markets, delay has a real economic cost. A restructuring that makes commercial sense today may lose value if market conditions change before the transaction is completed.

Sixth, India must make onboarding easier for global investors. Indian firms compete not only with other Indian com-

Regulation should give businesses and investors enough flexibility to respond to changing markets, new financial structures, and global competition

Greater acceptance of globally recognised digital signatures, documentation, and onboarding systems for FPIs can make a meaningful difference panies but with those listed in Singapore, London, New York, and Dubai for global capital. An international investor is therefore asking two questions: Is India an attractive market? Is India an easy market to operate in?

That distinction matters. Greater acceptance of globally recognised digital signatures, documentation, and onboarding systems for FPIs can make a meaningful difference. This is not about lowering standards, but about removing avoidable friction while preserving compliance and investor protection.

Seventh, India has done well in creating a framework that has allowed real estate investment trusts (REITs) and infrastructure investment trusts (InvITs) to grow while maintaining regulatory discipline. The next step should be to bring newer infrastructure models within the InvIT framework wherever appropriate and consider whether REITs and InvITs should operate under a framework more closely aligned with equity markets, including the takeover framework.

These seven ideas are an argument for better regulation for a more mature market. India should continue to protect investors, and insist on market integrity, transparency, and accountability. But regulation should also give businesses and investors enough flexibility to respond to changing markets, new financial structures, and global competition.

The ambition should be clear. We should build one of the most competitive capital markets, where an Indian company can raise capital efficiently, a global investor can enter without unnecessary friction, an entrepreneur can structure a transaction intelligently, and a company can restructure without repetition.

How Germany's big three split the entry-luxury pie

AUDI WILL SOON LAUNCH THE NEW Q3, AND A UNIQUE TREND IS EMERGING

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

WITH AUDI'S PREVIEW of the third-generation Q3 ahead of its festive season launch, the arrival of the stretched BMW X1 Long Wheel-base (LWB) this month, and Mercedes-Benz aiming to launch the new GLA next year, a unique trend is emerging in the entry-luxury car space — Germany's big three are no longer fighting for the same customer, but are carving a unique space in the customer's mind.

Audi Q3: Driver's delight

WHILE 'SHEER DRIVING Pleasure' is BMW's global slogan, it is Audi that appears to be focusing on this trait. The upcoming Q3, to be assembled in India, is expected to retain the proven 2.0-litre TFSI turbo-petrol engine (190 hp, 320 Nm) with minor modifications, but what makes it truly a driver's car is the Quattro all-wheel drive, unlike the petrol variants of the GLA and X1 LWB that are front-wheel drive cars (the GLA diesel is all-wheel drive).

Having driven this powertrain, its strength lies in effortless acceleration — sprinting from 0-100 km/h in a rapid 7.3 seconds with precise steering feedback. While Audi has comprehensively changed the exterior (see photos) with a clean centre console and column-mounted gear selector, it keeps its enthusiast heart intact. Its target customer now is an affluent person who loves driving and appreciates punchy performance over rear-seat space. The current Q3 is priced ₹43.67 lakh, and the new one is expected to be equally competitive.

BMW X1 LWB: The lounge

IF INGOLSTADT IS playing the driver's card well, Munich is correctly reading the pulse of the Indian customer. Recognising that most entry-luxury buyers loves the rear seat, BMW has stretched the X1's wheelbase to 2,800 mm (up 108 mm), delivering rear legroom that rivals an X3.

But along with the customer, 'Sheer Driving Pleasure' has also taken the backseat. Its 1.5-litre petrol unit, while powerful (156 hp, and 0-100 km/h in 9.3 seconds), doesn't have the punch of the Q3. Other driver-focused features such as paddle shifters, Sport mode, and all-wheel drive are also missing. But as an executive lounge, the X1 LWB, priced starting ₹49.9 lakh, is unmatched.

Mercedes GLA: The status

HAVING PHASED OUT the A-Class sedan and EQA, the GLA, priced ₹51.8 lakh onwards, is the gateway to Mercedes-Benz. It doesn't have the massive rear knee stretch of the X1 LWB, but its cab-forward stance, turbine air vents, and MBUX digital screen give it undeniable cabin prestige. It is designed for style-conscious buyers who treat their car as a high-visibility urban statement.

The Motobahn verdict

The entry-luxury game is no longer about which German brand is building the 'best' compact SUV. BMW has a back-seat lounge, Mercedes-Benz crafted a luxury lifestyle apartment that will be upgraded soon, and Audi is keeping the driver's car alive.

Sierra drove Tata sales, but at the cost of Curvv

ADDS 50,000 UNITS TO TATA'S VOLUMES; CURVV TANKS

VIKRAM CHAUDHARY

EVEN SIX MONTHS after its launch, the novelty of the Tata Sierra hasn't worn off. When we drove it through Delhi's busy arterial roads recently, it turned heads, with people checking out its triple-screen dashboard and continuous rear-glass illusion.

It continues to appeal across generations — bringing back nostalgic memories for Gen X while capturing tech-focused Millennials and Gen Z with its lounge-like cabin, airy glass area, and 12-speaker JBL audio system.

But has this people-magnet also powered Tata Motors' balance sheet?

The latest sales data shows it has, but with some cannibalisation. Between January and July 2026, Tata Motors sold 441,520 cars, a robust 42.7% growth over 309,488 cars it sold during the same seven-month period in 2025, and the Sierra was the largest contributor with 49,747 units, accounting for 37.7% of Tata's total incremental expansion.

But a closer look reveals that this expansion wasn't entirely additive, and that the Sierra appears to have taken a chunk of sales from the similarly-priced Curvv.

While the Punch (45,252 extra units in January-July 2026 over January-July 2025) and Nexon (35,545 extra units) continued their upward trajectory, and sales of the flagship Harrier more than doubled from 9,510 units to 21,256 units, the Curvv crashed from 20,632 units to 11,556 units. Buyers in the midsize crossover SUV segment preferred the Sierra's spacious seating, massive 622-litre boot, and class-leading 2,730 mm wheelbase over the coupe-SUV styling of the Curvv.

Furthermore, until now, the Sierra has relied entirely on its petrol and diesel variants. On the road, the 1.5 Hyperion turbocharged petrol engine impresses with strong acceleration past 100 km/h, while the Kryojet turbo-diesel delivers solid top-end performance for long highway runs. Even then, supply-side bottlenecks kept the Sierra's monthly dispatches capped in the 6,000-7,000 range, allowing its primary rival, the Kia Seltos, to stay ahead with steady 10,000-plus monthly dispatches.

But that dynamic can shift with the launch of the Sierra EV. Boasting a 75-kWh battery (also with a 63-kWh option), a dual-motor setup generating a monstrous 306 PS and 504 Nm of torque, and a real-world range of 450-500 km, Tata has entered a space where competitors like the Seltos have no direct electric counter.

Testing the EV on the Dwarka Expressway reveals sports-car-like acceleration — blistering through a claimed 0-100 km/h sprint in just 5.8 seconds. While its heavy battery setup shows up on speed breakers and sharp turns, and wind noise is noticeable at high speeds, its instant overtaking torque and tech-laden cabin give the Sierra serious firepower.

SALES CATALYST

- The Sierra has added 49,747 units to Tata's sales since its launch, accounting for 37.7% of Tata's incremental expansion in January-July 2026 over the same period a year ago
- High demand for the big and spacious Sierra directly hit dispatches of the coupe-SUV Curvv, causing a 44% sales slump of the latter
- But the Sierra faced production constraints and monthly volumes hovered at 7,000 units; the new 306 PS Sierra EV can drive growth

As supplier component bottlenecks ease ahead of the festive season and Sierra EV dispatches gather pace, the Sierra is not only expected to give Tata Motors a further sales boost, but can also close the gap on segment leaders such as the Seltos and Hyundai Creta.

(The Sierra EV is priced ₹18.79-26.48 lakh, and the Sierra ICE ₹11.49-21.29 lakh. The Curvv EV is priced ₹16.99-19.49 lakh, and the Curvv ICE ₹9.76-19.16 lakh.)

Personal Finance

Your health plan's co-pay kicks in if you switch to a metro hospital

INSURERS FACTOR IN THE PLACE OF RESIDENCE TO CALCULATE PREMIUMS

SAIKAT NEOGI

A HEALTH INSURANCE policy will permit treatment anywhere in the country but can have a specific co-pay if treatment is taken outside the selected zone. Therefore, before buying a policy, you should understand the geographical coverage and the circumstances under which a co-pay is triggered.

In a co-pay, the policyholder has to bear a specified percentage of the admissible claim, while the insurer covers the rest.

If the policy is registered at your place of residence in a lower-cost zone, a zone-based co-payment will be triggered if the treatment is taken in a higher-cost or metro zone. For example, if the clause mandates a 20% zonal co-pay and the total hospital bill comes to ₹15 lakh, you would have to pay ₹3 lakh, while the insurer will pay the rest.

Cost-sharing process

This arrangement ensures fair cost-sharing between the policyholder and the insurance company. The applicability of co-pay will depend on the specific plan selected, its terms and conditions, and whether the insurer has categorised treatment costs by city tiers.

Note that location-based co-pay is distinct from a voluntarily chosen co-pay. Under a voluntary co-payment, customers agree to bear a specified percentage of a claim, usually in return for a premium reduction.

MOVING CITIES

If the insured expects to regularly access healthcare in a higher-cost city, paying the applicable premium for that zone can provide greater predictability and reduce the possibility of a substantial co-payment at the time of hospitalisation.

"Someone who primarily lives in a lower-cost city and only occasionally travels to a metro for treatment may find a zone-based option more economical," says Siddharth Singhal, head of health, Insurance, Policybazaar. A Policybazaar study shows average hospitalisation claim in Tier-1 cities is 44% higher than Tier-3 cities, highlighting the growing cost differential across the country's healthcare ecosystem.

Typically, a 35-year-old residing in a Tier-1 city will have to pay nearly 25% more premium than someone in a Tier-3 city.

Update change in address

During the tenure of an active policy if the insured relocates to a metro or higher-tier city, it is prudent to inform the insurer. Under a zone-rated policy, a change in residence may affect the geographical classification or premium applicable to the policy. In such cases, an additional premium buffer may be charged to align the coverage with the higher cost of treatment in the new location.

Updating the address enables the insurer to communicate any applicable change in zoning, premium or claim conditions, says Amarnath Saxena, chief technical officer, Commercial, Bajaj General Insurance. "Timely disclosure can help policyholders understand any revised premium or cost-sharing requirement before a claim arises, while insurers can continue to provide robust protection that fits the customer's needs."

For senior citizens, a zonal co-pay will apply on top of the standard co-pay built into it if they live in a Tier-3 town but get treated in a Tier-1 city. Sarita Joshi, head, Health and Life Insurance, Probud, says depending on the insurer's specific rules, these will either add up linearly or apply sequentially.

● YOUR QUERIES: LOANS

Have surplus funds? Then opt for home loan overdraft facility

● Is it beneficial to opt for a home loan overdraft account?

—Lalbabu Nishad

The home loan is sanctioned as an overdraft (OD) facility. With each passing month, the overdraft limit is reduced to the extent of the principal repayment in a regular home loan (which is essentially a term loan). The home loan as an overdraft facility works best for families that may have surplus funds for some time. For example, the salary may be parked in the overdraft account as soon as it comes in. You can make your bill payments and expenses from the overdraft account itself. By the end of the month, the interest payable on the overdraft facility loan is lower than the regular home loan interest, as the extra funds sitting in the account reduce the outstanding for those days, which results in lower interest for the month. Do note that the EMI has to be paid regularly in these OD facility home loans as well.

● What valuation does a bank consider for a loan against securities? Can I sell the mortgaged securities later to repay the loan?

—Rachit Goel

For loan against financial securities, the valuation is considered as on the day of sanction. For debt instruments the margin is lower while for equity based instruments, the margin is higher, considering the volatile nature of the valuations.

● For a gold loan, can I repay the principal and the interest as EMIs?

—Gunjeet Jaju

Both options are available for a gold loan: either repay as EMI or as a lumpsum in the end.

● I am a salaried employee. Can I take a business loan of around ₹1 crore and what are the documents required?

—Ram Prakash

More than the documents, for a business loan, the business proposal has to be prepared with the three-year expected business growth scenario. The lender may require collateral to sanction the loan.

● Do I have to pay extra interest to convert the outstanding credit card dues into EMI for one year?

—Rohan Chaudhary

No, there is no extra cost for the conversion.

● My NRI son wants to invest in a property in India. Will he be eligible to take a loan from an Indian bank and can I be a co-borrower?

—Deepak Ghangas

NRIs can avail a loan in India to purchase property here. As for the joint holder, the name has to appear in the purchase documents as the joint holder in the property as well.

Indian Railways Operates First Double-Stack Long-Haul Container Train from JNPT Mumbai.
Indian Railways achieved a major operational milestone on 21.08.2026 by successfully dispatching its first double-stack long-haul container train from JNPT to carrying a total of 360 TEUs Containers towards the Varnama in Vadodara Division. The train formation covered a distance of approximately 422 km. The load departed from JNPT at 19:00 hrs.on dated 21.08.2026. The long-haul formation comprised two double-stack rakes: Leading Rake: JNPT Vadodara | Load: 45+1 | Loco: 60311 | Tonnage: 1,817 tonnes Trailing Rake: JNPT–Vadodara | Load: 45+1 | Loco: 24690 | Tonnage: 2,105 tonnes Together, the formation carried 360 TEUs, demonstrating the capability of transporting a significantly higher volume of containerised freights in a single long-haul movement. A single long-haul double-stack container train can transport cargo equivalent to that requiring a large number of trucks by road. This helps reduce diesel consumption, road congestion, vehicular emissions and the overall carbon footprint of freight transportation.

UPDATE (CR)
Indian Railways Launches a Special Drive for Cleaning and Disinfection of Drinking Water Tanks and Filters
Indian Railways has launched a special cleanliness drive across the railway network focused on cleaning and disinfection of drinking-water tanks and filtration systems to ensure the continued availability of safe and clean drinking water for passengers at railway stations. The initiative is part of a broader action plan for strengthening drinking-water quality management across Indian Railways. The action plan emphasises frequent inspection and maintenance of the entire drinking-water system, along with water-quality testing at the source as well as at the point of consumption, rather than relying solely on end-of-pipe water testing. During the drive, Zonal Railways will undertake comprehensive inspection of water sources, treatment and filtration plants, underground and overhead tanks, PVC tanks, water booths, taps and water dispensing points. All drinking-water tanks will be drained, desludged, scrubbed and disinfected. Measures will also be taken to ensure tight covers and appropriate protection of vents and overflow points from birds, animals and algae. Damaged tanks, pipelines and filters will be repaired or replaced, wherever required, while ensuring that there is no cross-connection between potable and non-potable water systems. All piping forming part of the drinking-water circuit will also be checked for leakages and necessary corrective measures taken to prevent water wastage.

UPDATE (JNPA)
JNPA Commences First Long-Haul Double-Stack DFC Rake Operations
The Jawaharlal Nehru Port Authority (JNPA), India's largest container port, has achieved a significant milestone in Dedicated Freight Corridor (DFC) operations with the departure of its first long-haul double-stack (D/S) rake. The rake departed from JNPA at 7 pm on August 21, 2026, bound for CGMV, carrying 360 TEUs of Import cargo that arrived through BMCTPL operated by PSA. The movement marks a significant advancement in JNPA's long-haul rail connectivity and strengthens its capability to facilitate faster and more efficient evacuation of EXIM cargo. The successful movement underscores JNPA's growing rail infrastructure capabilities and its readiness to support high-capacity, double-stack and long-haul freight operations. By providing an efficient rail alternative for the movement of EXIM cargo over long distances, the initiative is expected to streamline cargo evacuation, reduce logistics bottlenecks and improve supply-chain efficiency.

400 INDIANS ON CHINESE SIDE SAFE, SAYS MEA SPOKESPERSON

Nepal toll climbs to 579; MEA says 320 Indians still missing

SHUBHAJIT ROY, DIVYAA & YUBARAJ GHIMIRE
New Delhi/Kathmandu, August 28

TWO DAYS AFTER the deadly flash floods that swept through several districts of Nepal, the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) on Friday said at least 320 Indians — up from 290 on Thursday — and over 100 people of Indian origin remained missing.

The total toll increased to 579 on Friday, with more bodies being recovered as search and rescue operations continued with caution due to fear of fresh floods following an increase in the water level in the Bhotekoshi River area. Hundreds are still reported to be missing.

MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said about 400 Indian nationals who were stranded on the Chinese side of the Sino-Nepal border were reported to be safe. These are pilgrims for the Kailash Mansarovar Yatra. He said 96 such Indians had crossed into Nepal.

Jaiswal said India was sending a third flight with about 12-13 tonne of relief material. Since Wednesday night, India has sent a total of 47.5 tonne of emergency supplies to Nepal in two military transport aircraft.

"You are aware of the humanitarian assistance rendered by India so far to Nepal in the wake of the recent tragedy. More assistance is in the pipeline. Two aircraft with relief material have left, and a third tranche of relief material is expected to leave this evening," the MEA spokesperson said.

"As requested by Nepal, we are preparing to send a tunnel rescue team, for which a rescue team is being flown in first to assess the equipment required etc. A medical team is also being sent. In addition, we have also offered Bailey bridges along with their associated technical teams so that connectivity can be restored quickly in the affected parts of Nepal. One Bailey bridge is already in Nepal and can be deployed for relief efforts," he said.

"We have also made a specific offer to Nepal authorities to dispatch NDRF (National Disaster Response Force) teams along with their associated equipment that can help in ongoing search and rescue operations and bring relief assistance to people impacted by the tragedy. We await a response from the Government of Nepal on this front," he said. "We stand ready to offer any other assistance that the Nepal authorities might

Nation's sole billionaire puts cost of rebuilding at $5 bn

EFFORTS TO REBUILD Nepal's infrastructure after a devastating flash flood this week could cost at least $5 billion, according to the country's only billionaire.

"I wouldn't be surprised" if the eventual costs climb to that level, Binod Chaudhary, chairman at Chaudhary Group, told Bloomberg. That equals around 11% of the country's economy, which measured $45.5 billion last year. "It is not only the money, but the amount of time it takes and the difficult geography," Chaudhary said.

The Chaudhary Group spans 12 business verticals, from food and telecom to infrastructure and banking.

"It is a huge issue in front of us," he said of the rehabilitation process and also getting the economy going again.

The flash flood tore through Nepal's mountainous border region with China on August 26, engulfing villages and washing away roads and bridges. Early investigations suggest melting glaciers may have triggered the disaster. "We have been seeing complete disruption," Chaudhary said, noting that power stations damaged were also damaged.

The Chaudhary Group is working with the government, local partners and the army, and has set up rehabilitation centers for displaced people within the next two days. BLOOMBERG

Country denies refusing foreign assistance

NEPAL ON FRIDAY denied refusing assistance from friendly countries and the international community, saying it wants to "prioritise" maximum deployment of its own security forces, which are familiar with local environmental conditions and rugged terrain.

Nepal is carrying out rescue and relief operations at an immense level, after a massive flash flood swept through Rasuwa and other parts of central Nepal on Wednesday, killing hundreds and causing widespread damage to settlements, roads, bridges and hydropower infrastructure. PTI require," Jaiswal said. He said the government was arranging for the return of those who have been rescued so far.

On Friday, 21 people from Tamil Nadu, who were among those rescued, arrived in New Delhi, and were received by External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar.

"Received a group of 21 pilgrims from Tamil Nadu who were rescued from the floods in Nepal. Was moved to hear their experience first hand. Thank the @NepalArmyHQ and Government for this rescue effort," Jaishankar said in a post on X.

According to Nepal authorities, 171 foreigners, including 85 Indians, 16 Chinese, nine South Koreans and two each from the US and Italy, had been rescued from various flood-affected regions until Friday afternoon.

A first for India: Pragg wins Grand Chess Tour title

GRANDMASTER R PRAGGNANANDHAA became the first Indian to clinch the Grand Chess Tour title, beating Fabiano Caruana of the USA with a stunning comeback win in the grand finale in US.

Praggnanandhaa made a remarkable turnaround on Thursday after trailing Caruana by six points at the start of the day at the Saint Louis Chess Club.

The 21-year-old Chennai-lad eventually prevailed 15-13 to win his maiden GCT title and pocket $200,000 as the winning purse.

The title win also guaranteed Praggnanandhaa a spot in the next year's Grand Chess Tour along with Caruana, and another American Wesley So, who defeated Vincent Keymer of Germany 18-12 to take the third place.

"Honestly, I didn't think I had many chances today," Praggnanandhaa told Chess.com.

"It's not every day that you can get one win from Fabi, but to get two, it was important in the rapid." PTI

TERO's 3x3 hoop dream: grassroots first, biz later

ANKIT PATTNAIK
New Delhi, August 28

THAILAND-BASED MEDIA AND entertainment firm TERO Entertainment is betting on the fast-paced 3x3 basketball format to tap India's youth market — and its ambition goes beyond launching yet another commercial sports league.

Endorsed by FIBA, the international basketball federation, TERO sees India as its next big growth market. The larger objective: create more opportunities for young players to compete, earn international rankings and, eventually, build a pathway to the Olympics.

"We are very ambitious. Our ambition is to make this event the road to the Olympics — to take India to the Olympics," said Founder and MD Brian L Macrar.

The company's immediate focus is grassroots development. Merely creating a domestic league, TERO argues, will not make India competitive; players need international exposure.

"If it is only Indian versus Indian, it will never be able to drive that," said Chandrakant Singh, managing director and CEO, TERO India.

"This is where TERO differs from a conventional franchise-led sports business. Our immediate focus is not on team valuations or celebrity appeal, but on developing players and building a competitive ecosystem."

Born of streetball, 3x3 is played on a half-court with one hoop and three players a side, each team permitted one substitution. Games last just 10 minutes or end when a team reaches 21 points, and a 10-second shot clock makes the format faster and more intense than traditional basketball. Now the world's top urban team sport, 3x3 is a full Olympic discipline.

TERO believes the combination of speed, simplicity and minimal infrastructure makes the format tailor-made for India's urban youth.

"You cannot waste time," said Macrar, pointing to the premium the game places on quick passing, decision-making, stamina and creativity. The format can also be staged outside conventional venues — in schools, streets and malls. TERO is already in talks with a Delhi school of nearly 10,000 students for a potential collaboration.

The short, sharp games are made for Instagram and YouTube, and with a maximum playing time of 10 minutes, several matches can be packed into a single event window.

The company envisages a festival-like experience around tournaments — music, DJs, food and giant screens — blending sport with entertainment. That gives sponsors a different proposition: rather than simply placing a logo on a jersey, brands can buy into an entertainment property built around a young audience.

AT 59, PEYMAN KARGAR, who takes over as CEO of TVS Motor Company in January 2027, is starting at a significant opportunity. TVS Motor has scale, a growing premium portfolio, an expanding EV business and an increasingly international operation. Its progress in recent years has given Kargar, who is currently the president of International Business, a strong platform. But it has also raised expectations for the next phase.

His challenge would be to bring these different pieces together and ensure that growth across product categories translates into a stronger and more profitable global business. At the same time, he will have to protect the revenue and profitability momentum built under current CEO KN Radhakrishnan.

Kargar's more than three decades of automotive experience across some of the world's most diverse and competitive markets will come in handy. His career has spanned commercial, industrial, engineering and business development responsibilities across markets in Africa, West Asia and South America. He has previously held senior positions at Renault and Nissan, including as CEO of Datsun and Chairman of Nissan's Africa, Middle East and India region.

The leadership transition comes after a strong FY26. TVS Motor sold 5.9 million vehicles globally and reported revenue of ₹4,270 crore, up 30%. The operating profit before tax rose 40% to ₹4,975 crore, while operating Ebitda margin improved to 12.9%. The company is also steadily closing the gap with Hero MotoCorp in domestic and export volumes.

For Kargar, the immediate challenge will be to sustain this momentum while driving premiumisation, push for aspirational products, technology and stronger margins.

TVS Motor is on a strong wicket with the Apache motorcycle range and the new NTORQ 150 scooter. Apache has helped establish a strong presence in the premium motorcycle segment, while the NTORQ 150 has taken the scooter brand towards a more performance-oriented positioning.

Electric mobility will be another major priority for Kargar. The electric two-wheeler market is becoming increasingly competitive, with established manufacturers as well as new EV players competing for customers.

TVS sold 371,000 electric two-wheelers in FY26, an increase of 33%. The company has also built a network of more than 1,000 EV dealers and around 5,000 public charging points.

The iQube remains the mainstay of the electric portfolio, while the Orbiter and battery-as-a-service model are helping TVS address a wide range of customers.

A larger challenge, however, would be global expansion. The company has a significant presence across Africa, South America, Indonesia and other markets, while international operations have become an increasingly important contributor to overall volumes.

International business currently accounts for 29% of TVS Motor's total sales volume and grew 33% under Kargar. International sales reached a record 1.58 million units in FY26.

Kargar will be expected to take this to the next level. The company has already crossed one million units of cumulative production in Indonesia and has strengthened its presence in Europe, Africa, South America and other international markets. The next phase will require deeper penetration in these markets, stronger brands and greater recognition for TVS Motor as a global mobility company.

Kargar will also inherit Norton, one of the most ambitious elements of TVS Motor's premium strategy.

More than £250 million has been invested in reviving the British motorcycle marque, including spending on new products, engineering capabilities and manufacturing infrastructure in the UK. Four new Norton models are planned for international markets, with some expected to be rolled out in India as well.

For TVS, Norton represents a test of the company's ability to build a genuinely global premium motorcycle brand while retaining its British identity and heritage. It could also give TVS a premium global identity that complements its existing portfolio.

In short, Kargar has his task cut out. But he has cut his teeth in markets where growth depends on a combination of local understanding, operational excellence, brand building and the ability to juggle a portfolio across regions.

Those skills will likely be tested on a much larger canvas.
