Aug inflation hits 20-mth high of 4.82%

Volatility in global energy prices, kharif crop concerns cloud outlook

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, September 14

RETAIL INFLATION, AS measured by the Consumer Price Index (CPI), rose to a 20-month high of 4.82% in August, driven by a broad-based increase in prices. The acceleration was led by food items, particularly edible oils and sugar, according to data released by the statistics ministry on Monday.

With the inflation outlook turning slightly more vulnerable due to the recent bout of volatility in prices of crude oil and assorted metals, expectations have risen that the Reserve Bank of India's Monetary Policy Committee will raise interest rates as soon as October. The threat to kharif crops from uneven monsoon distribution has clouded the outlook on food inflation.

August marked the third consecutive month of CPI inflation staying above the RBI's medium-term target of 4%.

It was also the 10th month in a row that retail inflation has risen. Higher food and fuel prices led the rise in prices in

Coforge turns to Egon Zehnder for board hires

POULOMI CHATTERJEE
Bengaluru, September 14

COFORGE HAS HIRED global executive search firm Egon Zehnder to identify two independent directors to replace former chairman OP Bhatt and Nomination and Remuneration Committee (NRC) chair DK Singh, who recently stepped down. CEO and Executive Director Sudhir Singh reiterated that no other directors had been questioned over gaps in the board evaluation process and said the recent developments would not alter the company's strategy or priorities.

The mid-tier IT services company sought to project a united front at an investor call on Monday, attended by five directors—Vivek Sharma, John Speight, Beth Boucher, Anil Chanana and Sudhir Singh—along with Chief Financial Officer Saurabh Goel.

"Our near term, medium term, and long term outlook remains unchanged and our FY27 guidance remains intact," Goel reaffirmed. Coforge expects a consolidated Ebitda margin between 20.5-21.1% and consolidated Ebit margin of minimum 15.5% with a free cash flow conversion of above 100% of PAT in the current financial year. "The four-year guidance of around $5 billion revenue generated remains intact," he added.

Vivek Sharma, appointed interim chairperson, said he had opted out of the race for the permanent position to ensure objectivity. Both internal and external candidates with "extraordinary capabilities" and deep professional expertise and governance experience would be considered, he said.

The seven-member board had sought explanations from Bhatt and DK Singh after they were found to have omitted Bhatt's low performance rating from the Board Evaluation Report (BER). The issue came to light following an annual internal audit by KPMG Assurance and Consulting Services LLP, which found that the chairman and the NRC chair had not disclosed the details to the other board members. Bhatt resigned on September 8, followed by Singh two days later.

"All seven of us on the Coforge Board wish to state that the issues under consideration are not personal. All of us hold our two transition directors who are no longer on the Board in high regard, and we wish them the very best," Singh said in his opening remarks.

Following DK Singh's departure, Coforge has reconstituted its NRC and Stakeholders' Relationship Committee. Beth Boucher, the longest-serving independent director on the board, has been appointed the new NRC chair.

Trusts' grip on Tata Sons faces its first real test

URVI MALVANIA
Mumbai, September 14

THE TATA GROUP'S absolute sway over its companies has never been questioned before. That may be about to change. The Reserve Bank of India's (RBI's) rejection of Tata Sons' application to surrender its Core Investment Company registration has brought the conglomerate's long-delayed listing back into focus. Observers say a listing could also trigger closer scrutiny of the special governance rights Tata Trusts enjoys through the holding company's Articles of Association (AoA)—control that goes well beyond its roughly 66% shareholding and has so far operated outside public view.

Corporate lawyers say at the heart of the matter are provisions giving the Trusts extraordinary powers over Tata Sons. Under Article 104B, the Trusts can jointly nominate one-third of the Tata Sons board while they hold at least 40% of ordinary share capital. More significantly, Article 121 requires that any matter decided by a majority of directors must also receive the affirmative vote of a majority of Trust-nominated directors—in effect, a veto. The AoA also requires at least one Trust nominee for board quorum,

WHAT'S AT STAKE

■ Article 121 veto most vulnerable — could hinge on 5-yearly shareholder nod post-listing

■ Right to pick the Tata Sons chairman via 3-of-5 panel also under a cloud

■ Articles blocking free share transfer, new investors can't survive a listing and gives them three of five seats on the chairman-selection committee.

These rights would not automatically lapse on listing. They would have to be tested against the Companies Act, Sebi's Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements (LODR) regulations and other securities laws, according to Yash Joglekar, advocate, Bombay High Court.

PLATFORMS SUCH AS MADVERSE, DAMROO TAP GROWING DEMAND FOR STREAMLINED MUSIC DISTRIBUTION

Indie artists find their label-free groove

S SHANTHI
Bengaluru, September 14

FOR DECADES, AN independent musician's road to listeners ran through a record label's door—and the toll was steep, often the ownership of the music itself. A new crop of music-tech startups is now dismantling that toll booth.

Platforms such as Madverse and Damroo are building, brick by digital brick, the infrastructure that labels once monopolised — pushing indie tracks onto Spotify, Apple Music, JioSaavn and YouTube Music, while handling everything from royalty collection and rights administration to marketing and audience-building. The pitch is simple and seductive:

STRIKING THE RIGHT NOTE

■ Non-film music could capture 30-40% of India's streaming market

■ Artists can distribute globally while retaining ownership of their masters

■ Madverse has crossed 200,000 independent artists and labels across 45-plus countries

■ Platforms now bundle royalties, publishing, sync, marketing and analytics

■ Subscription fees, royalties and value-added services fuel the business model

■ Damroo offers distribution, publishing, YouTube growth, marketing and financing support label-grade muscle, without signing away your masters or your creative soul.

The opportunity springs from India's exploding independent music scene. Hindi film music still towers over streaming with an 80% share, but non-film artists are closing the gap fast — their slice is projected to swell to 30-40% in the coming years. More than 40,000 active music creators now churn out tens of thousands of original non-film tracks every year, powered by cheap data, affordable production tools and listeners hungry for regional and independent sounds.

"The rise of music-tech platforms like Madverse and Damroo reflects a shift by which independent artists no longer need a traditional label to reach audiences at scale," said Rajesh Sethi, partner and leader-media, entertainment and sports, PwC India.

What artists do need is a professional support system that guards their rights — and that, until recently, barely existed. "It became obvious to us early on that the tools available to these artists were obsolete," Rohan Jain, founder and CEO of Madverse Music Group, an AI-first platform, told FE. Royalty collection was broken or simply missing for most independent creators, he said, while sync and OTT opportunities went only to those who knew the right people at a label. "Going the traditional label route meant signing away ownership of your work," Jain said.

The growth curve tells its own story. Madverse crossed 100,000 artists within two years of launch, topped 150,000 by early 2026, and has now onboarded over 200,000 independent artists and labels across more than 45 countries. It releases music on all major platforms worldwide — Spotify, Apple Music, YouTube Music, Amazon Music — and lets musicians keep up to 100% ownership of their masters. Distribution is just the opening act.

NET SEEN AT ₹15K CR; CRUDE VOLATILITY KEY RISK

OMCs set to stage smart Q2 recovery

SAURAV ANAND
New Delhi, September 14

STATE-RUN OIL MARKETING companies (OMCs)—IOC, BPCL and HPCL — are poised for a sharp sequential recovery in the September quarter, with combined profits of around ₹15,000 crore compared with aggregate losses of ₹18,150 crore in the previous quarter, analysts feel.

Their integrated margins are estimated at ₹9-14 a litre in Q2FY27 against just ₹1-3 a litre in Q1, as auto-fuel marketing improved and LPG under-recoveries fell sharply, according to Emkay Research.

The recovery, however, remains vulnerable to renewed crude volatility and the West Asia conflict. Emkay said current integrated margins have already moderated to around ₹5-9 a litre, although Q2 averages remain substantially above the June quarter. HPCL is likely to see the strongest positive sequential change.

The earnings improvement could be substantial. ICICI Securities estimates the three firms will report a combined profit of ₹14,470 crore in July-September, against a combined loss of ₹18,150 crore in April-June, assuming current trends continue through the rest of September.

“Given the trends seen in the quarter so far, although recent weeks have seen a sharp decline in integrated margins, Q2 averages are still sharply higher than Q1 levels,” ICICI Securities said. It expects the three OMCs to remain profitable at both operating and net-profit levels even if current conditions persist.

IOCL is estimated to swing to a ₹7,303-crore profit from a ₹2,661-crore loss in Q1. BPCL could post ₹4,520 crore against a loss of ₹3,962 crore, while HPCL is expected to report ₹2,647 crore profit after a ₹11,526-crore loss.

The biggest turnaround is in fuel marketing. ICICI estimates Q2 marketing margins at ₹2.9 a litre on petrol and ₹1.3 on diesel, against negative ₹6.1 and ₹18.9

a litre, respectively, in Q1.

LPG is also providing a major cushion. Emkay expects under-recoveries to fall to around ₹290 per cylinder in Q2 from ₹510 in Q1, helped by a 19% quarter-on-quarter fall in Saudi contract prices, lower spot premiums and the full impact of price hikes. Monthly under-recoveries are estimated at ₹490 in July, ₹180 in August and ₹200 in September.

Refining margins remain supportive but have moderated for some companies. ICICI expects IOCL’s refining margin at $15 a barrel versus $15.6 in Q1, BPCL at $18 versus $41.4, and HPCL at $16 versus $23.8.

RBI Governor calls on FM

RESERVE BANK OF India (RBI) Governor Sanjay Malhotra met Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Monday.

“Sanjay Malhotra, Governor @RBI calls on @nsitharaman,” the Office of the Finance Minister said in a post on X.

The meeting comes weeks after India logged a record 7.8% GDP growth in the first quarter of the current financial year despite global uncertainties.

The next meeting of the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC), the RBI’s rate-setting panel, is scheduled for October 5-7. In August, the central bank kept the short-term lending rate (repo) unchanged at 5.25% for the fourth time in a row.

The RBI should raise the benchmark interest rate by 25 basis points next month and again in December as a countermeasure to persistent external shocks, elevated crude oil prices and signs of broader inflationary pressures, an SBI research report said on Friday.

Fertiliser subsidy is the largest component, with DBT-linked transfers of ₹63,984 crore so far in financial year 2026-27. It is followed by the Public Distribution System (PDS) at ₹52,741 crore, reflecting the continued scale of government support for food security and subsidised food-grain distribution.

Food inflation surges to 5.95%

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, September 14

FOOD INFLATION, AS measured by the recently revised Consumer Food Price Index (CFPI), continued to move upwards to touch 5.95% in August, primarily because ginger, garlic, onion, sugar, chicken, and edible oils became costlier.

Sequentially, the all-India CFPI rose by 0.92% last month from the July level, slightly lower than the rise seen in July. Food inflation was 5.52% in July, and it was in negative territory for the seven months through December 2025.

Food inflation was 2.13% in January, when the new Consumer Price Index (CPI) series with a base year of 2024 was introduced by the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation (MoSPI).

Using both the current and previous CPI series (the latter with 2012 as the base year), food inflation in August was the steepest in 19 months.

Inflation in ginger (73.82%), onion (48.27%), garlic (43.6%), sugar (24.2%), chicken (14.12%) and mustard oil (6.92%) reported steep hikes, according to the statistics ministry. Retail prices of vegetable oils in the category, according to MoSPI, rose to 8.8% in August.

Despite the rise in food inflation, prices of tomato (-31.09%), potato (-13.14%), and lady’s finger (-5.41%) declined in August on a year-on-year basis. There was moderate inflation in wheat (0.86%) and chana (0.32%)

Aug WPI inflation hits 9.92% on high fuel prices; Sept print seen above 10%

SHUBHAM RANA
New Delhi, September 14

WHOLESALE PRICE INDEX (WPI) inflation in India rose to 9.92% in August, staying near the 10% mark for the fourth month in a row, data released by the commerce ministry on Monday showed.

The rise in wholesale inflation last month, from 9.78% in July, was primarily driven by higher fuel prices.

Wholesale food inflation also rose in August but was lower than the headline print, while core inflation eased slightly.

Wholesale prices have risen sharply due to the energy price spike caused by the war in West Asia. WPI inflation has averaged 9.6% during April-August, sharply higher than -0.2% in the corresponding period a year ago.

The August wholesale inflation print of 9.92% is the second highest in the new WPI series, which has data since April 2024.

Economists expect WPI inflation to rise above 10% in September as Brent crude oil prices have risen past $100 per barrel during the month.

Meanwhile, output Producer Price Index (PPI) inflation rose to a series high of 9.81% in August from 9.57% in July because of a rise in manufacturing and mining inflation. The trial input PPI for the manufacturing sector fell to 104.2 in August from 105.9 in July.

Higher food and fuel prices also led to a rise in retail inflation, as measured by CPI, to a 20-month high of 4.82% in August.

WPI internals

WPI fuel and power inflation rose to 22.93% in August from a four-month low of 20.05% in July, reflecting the rise in global energy prices last month. Within fuel and power, inflation was driven by LPG, petrol, high speed diesel, crude petroleum, and natural gas.

“Prolonged West Asia crisis has reversed the two-month declining trend of fuel and power inflation and is likely to remain elevated until the crisis is resolved,” said Devendra Pant, chief economist, India Ratings and Research.

Modi-Xi bonhomie at BRICS masks deep fault lines; hurdles remain

JOSH XIAO, SUDHI RANJAN SEN & DAN STRUMPF
September 14

CHINESE PRESIDENT XI Jinping and Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s first sit-down on Indian soil in seven years signalled a will to further repair ties and manage an unpredictable Donald Trump. But fundamental differences remain despite the good vibes flowing from the 10-nation BRICS Summit in New Delhi.

In a 45-minute meeting on Saturday, the two leaders agreed to take a strategic and long-term perspective on the relationship, promote cultural and business exchanges, and coordinate on regional and global issues.

Sitting across from Modi, Xi recounted his first visit to India in 2014 to Gujarat. “You received me in your home state on your birthday,” he said. He called China and India “partners rather than rivals, and development opportunities rather than threats to each other.” Modi, in turn, said “differences should not become disputes.”

The bilateral meeting was a symbolic moment for the two most populous nations, which are emerging from a multi-decade low point in relations fueled by bloody border clashes and deep strategic distrust. The meeting allowed both countries to show the world that ties are on the mend at a time when each is navigating their own troubled relationship with the US under Trump.

However, beneath the show of unity, deep differences remain. The two remain far apart on their border dispute, with those differences on display in diverging readouts from each side following the leaders’ meeting: India said border peace was “essential” for ties to develop further, while Beijing issued its usual position of separating the boundary dispute from broader ties.

New Delhi also highlighted economic imbalances that have made India more reliant on China over the years, with a trade deficit that has doubled in the past decade.

“External factors, such as US policies and the ongoing wars, are driving the thaw, but I’d be cautious about calling it anything more than a thaw,” said Sana Hashmi, a postdoctoral fellow at Taiwan-Asia Exchange

Foundation, a think tank. “There are still more divergences than convergences and China still sees India as a competitor.”

The New Delhi visit was capped by a joint BRICS statement that called for restraint in the US-led war in West Asia and a rollback of tariffs and trade barriers. For Xi, whose country dominates the bloc politically and economically, the summit offered a platform to shore up his image as a global statesman capable of managing the newly fluid global order challenged by Trump. The BRICS summit comes just weeks before Xi’s expected visit to the US.

It’s “unmistakable optics — a clear show of unity and a signal to Trump as Xi prepares to visit Washington,” Julian Gewirtz, a former senior director for China and Taiwan Affairs at the White House National Security Council, wrote on X.

China-India relations entered a deep freeze in 2020, when a confrontation at their 3,488-kilometer frontier killed soldiers on both sides and drove

■ Direct flights between the two nations have resumed after six-year suspension

■ At BRICS, the body language between Xi and Modi seemed to show a level of comfort between them

■ India flagged border peace as key to stronger relations

■ China-India trade deficit reached about $105 bn last year

■ New Delhi remains wary of Beijing’s Pakistan ties relations to their lowest point in decades. Covid halted travel between the nuclear-armed neighbours, while India imposed restrictions on Chinese investment and technology. Since then, the two sides have taken tentative steps to rebuild ties. Modi visited China in 2025, discussions have taken place on resolving border disputes, and direct flights between the two countries have resumed.

The body language between Xi and Modi at this weekend’s meeting showed a level of comfort between the two leaders, said Rajiv Dogra, an author and former diplomat. It was the second time in a matter of weeks they had been photographed holding hands as they spoke, following their recent meeting at the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation in Kyrgyzstan.

“The visit, I would say, was consciously tailored to be on the hopeful side for the Indo-China relationship,” said Dogra. The two sides were looking to project a “plus moment” in their relationship, although the border dispute remains a “punctuation mark” and a source of concern for New Delhi, he said.

Another growing irritant to the relationship is around trade. China’s exports to India exceeded its imports by about $105 billion last year — an imbalance that’s more than doubled over the past decade.

“The desirable outcomes from India’s standpoint will at best be gradual,” said Shubhada Rao, an economist and founder of QuantEco Research. “Expectations of swift improvement, especially in trade dynamics, would be unrealistic. Trade balance remains extremely skewed in favor of China currently.”

India remains highly dependent on Beijing for consumer goods and for inputs for its manufacturing sector, including its massive drug-making industry.

Policy predictability

Pankaj Mohindroo, chairman of the India Cellular and Electronics Association, said businesses want predictability in the China-India relationship, which has been lacking since 2020. “The current dialogue between the two governments is a highly positive step,” he said. “For global supply chains to function efficiently, industry requires smooth access to capital goods and business mobility, such as visas.”

There’s been notable steps toward closer ties since last year. China and India indicated progress in border talks in August, while India has loosened some curbs on investment from Chinese companies. Just before Xi’s touchdown in New Delhi on Saturday, China Southern Airlines announced that it will resume its daily Guangzhou-New Delhi route starting September 21, ending a six-year suspension. It’s the third major Chinese carrier to restore routes.

Other thorny challenges remain. Beijing’s support of Pakistan remains a concern to New Delhi. Pakistan deployed Chinese fighter jets during that clash, and most recently showcased an air-defence system resembling a Chinese platform in a promotional video.

“The key would be in sustaining communication and following up from this meeting,” said Dylan Loh, associate professor at Nanyang Technological University. —BLOOMBERG

GOYAL-WANG MEET SEEKS TO REBALANCE TRADE, ECONOMIC ISSUES

India & China move to address trade concerns

MUKESH JAGOTA
New Delhi, September 14

INDIA AND CHINA have signalled a renewed push to stabilise economic ties, with Chinese Commerce Minister Wang Wentao meeting Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal in New Delhi over the weekend and stressing Beijing's readiness to address bilateral trade and economic concerns.

"China stands ready to work with India" to implement the consensus reached by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping, a Chinese Embassy spokesperson said in a social media post on Monday after the meeting.

The post said the two sides should expand mutually beneficial economic and trade cooperation and "properly address each other's economic and trade concerns in a balanced manner" to benefit businesses and people in both countries.

The meeting was held on Saturday, after Modi and Xi concluded their bilateral engagement on the sidelines of the BRICS Summit. The two leaders underlined the need to address concerns including the structural trade imbalance and supply-chain issues, and facilitate meaningful and predictable market access.

The ministerial meeting is significant as New Delhi seeks to convert the recent political thaw with Beijing into concrete progress on long-standing economic issues, particularly India's widening trade deficit, market access for Indian exporters, supply-chain vulnerabilities and Chinese restrictions on critical minerals.

India's trade deficit with China rose to $112.1 billion in 2025-26 from $99.1 billion in the previous financial year. It stood at $73.3 billion in 2021-22. China accounted for 33.5% of India's total merchandise trade deficit in 2025-26.

Much of the deficit was driven by India's heavy dependence on China for industrial inputs, machinery, electronics components, chemicals, pharmaceutical intermediates and critical minerals. Emerging sectors of exports like electronics and automobiles are heavily dependent on inputs and components from China.

The dependence has also exposed supply-chain vulnerabilities. In 2025, China tightened controls on exports of rare-earth elements and permanent magnets. This made it difficult for Indian automobile and component manufacturers, which are heavily dependent on Chinese supplies, to secure magnets used in electric vehicles, hybrid vehicles and other automotive applications.

Indian companies have also faced difficulties in obtaining market access in China. New Delhi has repeatedly sought greater access for pharmaceuticals, agricultural products, food items and other goods, while Indian businesses have complained of regulatory, sanitary and other non-tariff barriers.

India, Canada commence next round of CEPA talks

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, September 14

INDIA AND CANADA on Monday started fourth round of negotiations for the proposed Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) here, as the two sides look to conclude the talks this year, an official said.

The issues that would figure in the five-day (September 14-18) talks include trade in goods, services, rules of origin, and technical trade barriers, among others.

The third round was held in July in Ottawa, the official said. The negotiations are important as the two sides have targeted to increase bilateral trade to $50 billion by 2030.

In 2025-26, two-way trade dipped 8.22% to $7.95 billion $4.67 billion exports and $3.28 billion imports) from $8.66 billion in 2024-25 ($4.22 billion exports and $4.44 billion imports).

Key exports from India to Canada include pharmaceuticals, iron and steel, seafood, cotton garments, electronic goods and chemicals, among others.

The main imports include pulses, pearls, semi-precious stones, coal and fertiliser.

Monsoon withdrawal to begin from Sept 19: IMD

SANDIP DAS
New Delhi, September 14

CONDITIONS ARE BECOMING favourable for the southwest monsoon to begin withdrawing from the country around September 19, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) said on Monday.

This is slightly later than the normal withdrawal date of September 17 and signals the end of its four-month (June-September) season.

The withdrawal is likely to commence from west Rajasthan, with the monsoon taking about a month to retreat from the entire country, the Met office said.

Usually, after its onset over the Kerala coast, the monsoon covers the mainland over the subsequent four months before beginning its withdrawal from the far western parts of Rajasthan.

This year, the monsoon onset over Kerala was on June 4, but its progress subsequently lost momentum. It regained pace only in July and covered the entire country by July 9.

Monsoon is crucial to the agricultural economy as the country receives more than 75% of its annual rainfall during the season.

The rains play a key role in boosting kharif or summer crops such as paddy, pulses, oilseeds, cotton and sugarcane.

According to the IMD, rainfall during the monsoon season from June 1 to September 13 was 14.7% below the long period average (LPA).

Regionally, central India received rainfall in the normal range, while northwest India (-9.9%), east and northeast India (-25%) and south peninsula India (-28%) remained below normal. Of around 740 districts, 343, or 47%, have received "deficient" to "large deficient" rainfall so far, while 398 districts, or 53%, have recorded "normal" to "large excess" precipitation.

India, Mercosur begin talks to expand trade pact

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, September 14

INDIA AND THE four-member South American trade bloc Mercosur on Monday formally launched negotiations to expand their existing Preferential Trade Agreement (PTA) to include more products eligible for trade at lower duties.

Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal and Uruguay's Foreign Affairs Minister Mario Lubetkin, representing Uruguay's current Pro Tempore Presidency of Mercosur,

MARKET ACCESS

■ Mercosur is 4-member bloc comprising Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay

■ Existing PTA: Signed in January 2004; operational since June 2009

■ Current coverage: Around 450 tariff lines offered by India; 452 by Mercosur announced the launch of the negotiations.

The two sides agreed to broaden the existing pact to cover areas of mutual interest and create greater opportunities for businesses on both sides. They are currently finalising the terms of reference (ToR), which will determine the scope, coverage and structure of the expanded agreement, the Ministry of Commerce and Industry said in a statement.

Mercosur comprises Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay, giving Indian exporters access to a large regional market. The bloc is also an important source of commodities, energy, minerals and agricultural products for India.

The existing India-Mercosur PTA was signed in January 2004 and became operational in June 2009. It provides tariff concessions on a relatively narrow basket of products—around 450 tariff lines offered by India and 452 by the South American bloc, with concessions ranging from 10% to 100%.

The limited coverage has long been viewed as a constraint on the potential of bilateral trade. India's trade with Mercosur reached about $20.7 billion in 2025-26. India's exports to the bloc stood at $8.4 billion during this period, up 4.16% from a year earlier.

FE BUREAU Chennai, September 14

AUTOMOTIVE COMPONENTS MAKER

Samvardhana Motherson International has committed to invest ₹11,000 crore in Tamil Nadu, with the potential to create around 7,000 jobs across design, engineering, manufacturing, assembly and logistics. A memorandum of understanding (MoU) to this effect was signed between the company and Guidance Tamil Nadu — the state's nodal investment promotion agency — in London on Monday in the presence of Chief Minister Joseph C Vijay. Separately, EY has committed an investment of ₹1,000 crore to set up global capability centres (GCCs) in the state on behalf of one of its clients. The investment is expected to create more than 2,000 high-value jobs, the industries department said in a release. CEILING WILL BE A FIRST IN INDIA'S FOOD DELIVERY MARKET

Flipkart may cap restaurant fees, ad spend at 15-20%

ANEES HUSSAIN Bengaluru, September 14

FLIPKART IS WORKING on a cap on the costs restaurants incur on its upcoming food delivery platform — at 15-20% of order value covering commission as well as any advertising spend — according to people aware of the matter. The ceiling would be a first in India's food delivery market. Zomato and Swiggy charge restaurants commissions of 16-30% of order value, with advertising and promotion fees on top and no stated limit on the total outgo. Advertising is among the fastest-growing and highest-margin revenue streams for the incumbents. FE had reported in August that Flipkart was in advanced talks with about 300 restaurants in Bengaluru for the pilot, offering a commission of 10-11% along with a mandate to match offline menu prices. At that stage, restaurants were pushing for listing and discovery to be kept free of advertising fees and paid promotions, along with rankings based purely on customer reviews and ratings. That has since been settled the other way. Advertising and paid ranking will be part of the platform, but a restaurant's combined spend will sit within the overall ceiling, the people said. The commission and the price-matching mandate stay unchanged. Discounts in the initial phase will be funded by the platform, the people said. At a later stage, discounts on orders below ₹149-199 will be restaurant-funded and the burden will be shared on orders above ₹199-249. Discount spends will sit outside the cap. Flipkart has also proposed an OTP-based consent mechanism for discounting, under which a restaurant would have to approve a campaign before it goes live, the people said.

NEW DEAL

■ Flipkart is likely to roll out a pilot consumer launch of its food delivery business in Bengaluru in October

■ India's food delivery market is estimated at around $9 billion

■ This segment is expected to nearly triple to about $25 billion by FY30

■ Rapido's Ownly entered the segment last year with a zero-commission promise and a flat delivery fee per order rant's combined spend will sit within the overall ceiling, the people said. The commission and the price-matching mandate stay unchanged.

Discounts in the initial phase will be funded by the platform, the people said. At a later stage, discounts on orders below ₹149-199 will be restaurant-funded and the burden will be shared on orders above ₹199-249. Discount spends will sit outside the cap. Flipkart has also proposed an OTP-based consent mechanism for discounting, under which a restaurant would have to approve a campaign before it goes live, the people said.

Zomato and Swiggy agreed to similar consent requirements in August after Bengaluru's hotel and restaurant associations threatened to stop accepting orders over promotional drives run without approval.

Flipkart has begun testing the service internally among select employees in Bengaluru under the name Eat In. A wider rollout to employees is expected around mid-September, with a consumer launch in the city in October. Delivery is free during the internal testing phase. A distance-based delivery fee mechanism is still being worked out for the wider consumer rollout, sources added.

The terms are not final and are expected to change based on the results of the pilot, the people said. Flipkart did not immediately respond to requests for comment.

The market Flipkart is entering is currently dominated by Zomato and Swiggy, and is estimated by Jefferies at around $9 billion, expected to nearly triple to about $25 billion by FY30. Rapido's Ownly entered the segment last year with a zero-commission promise and a flat delivery fee per order, while Swiggy's Toing matches dine-in menu prices on lower restaurant take rates.

Horiba of Japan eyes doubling India revenue on chip push

OJASVI GUPTA New Delhi, September 14

JAPANESE EQUIPMENT MAJOR Horiba on Monday said it plans to double its India revenue over the next five years and seeks to engage with chip-makers as the country's semiconductor sector matures.

The company currently generates close to 15 billion yen (around ₹927 crore) in annual turnover from India business spread across three sectors: energy and environment; bio and healthcare; and materials and semiconductors.

The company, which commands nearly 60% of the global market for mass flow controllers (MFCs) used in semiconductor manufacturing, plans to work alongside players like Tata and Foxconn in India. "We are ready to roll out products as the ecosystem matures. Our business will grow as more fabs set up base in the country," Dan Horiba, executive director, Horiba said.

Horiba is also looking to broaden its semiconductor play beyond its established MFC business, with the company developing a portfolio of inspection products for the semiconductor market. The company is marking 20 years of operations in India.

Smaller electric 2-wheeler brands kick into high gear

NARAYANAN V Chennai, September 14

INDIA'S ELECTRIC TWO-WHEELER boom is no longer a race limited to large players — both legacy firms and startups. Smaller brands such as Greaves Electric Mobility, River Mobility, Bgauss Auto and Simple Energy are clocking record volumes too, prompting many of them to raise funds for capacity expansion as they surpass their full-year volumes of 2025 in less than nine months.

Greaves Electric Mobility, which produces the Ampere brand of electric scooters, has sold 66,069 units so far in 2026, far outpacing the 57,699 units it sold in the whole of 2025, according to Vahan data. The Bengaluru-based firm, which briefly overtook Ola Electric to claim the fifth spot in September, has plans to double its market share to over 10% in two years.

Similarly, Yamaha-backed EV startup River Mobility more than doubled its EV sales to 35,250 units, while Mumbai-based Bgauss Auto clocked 32,101 units, against 25,131 units in the whole of the previous year. Bengaluru-based Simple Energy also registered 11,000 units, compared with 6,628 units in 2025.

Poonam Upadhyay, director,

Electric two-wheeler registrations (in units)

Crisil Ratings, said the scaling up of domestic cell manufacturing under the production-linked incentive (PLI) scheme helped moderate battery costs, narrowing the cost gap with imported cells and easing pricing pressure in the entry-level segment. "Product availability has also expanded across price points, offering consumers a wider range of options than in the market's early years," She added.

The record sales of smaller or regional EV brands come as India's electric two-wheeler industry has hit a new high of 1.44 million registrations so far in 2026, surpassing the previous record of 1.34 million set in 2025. Industry experts attribute the record volumes to widening product choices, expanding service networks, falling ownership costs and rising fuel prices, which created a shift in consumer behaviour from petrol vehicles to EVs.

Electric two-wheeler majors like TVS Motor, Ather Energy and Bajaj Auto have all announced capacity expansion to keep pace with the rising demand, even as delivery timelines have stretched to as much as two months from around two weeks earlier for leading OEMs. A similar trend is now emerging among smaller brands. With registrations already crossing the full-year tally of 2025, smaller EV makers are raising funds to expand capacity and strengthen their operations.

Trai to look into concerns over Vi's number portability drive

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA New Delhi, September 14

AMID CONCERNS RAISED by Bharti Airtel and Reliance Jio over rival Vodafone Idea's alleged attempt to nudge customers to switch to its network, Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (Trai) Chairman AK Lahoti said on Monday that the regulator will examine representations from the operators.

"When we get representation from any operator, we look into it...they (telcos) have expressed some concerns against each other. We will examine whatever has come," Lahoti said on the sidelines of an industry event. Lahoti, however, declined to specify whether all three telecom operators will be called for a detailed discussion or follow-up query on the issue.

When contacted, a Vodafone Idea spokesperson, said, "At Vi, we believe in fair competition, strength of our products and the value we deliver to our customers. At all times, we conduct our business in compliance with the

Safeguards must as AI use in telecom grows: Lahoti

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE CAN transform how telecom networks are managed and threats detected, but its growing use must be accompanied by safeguards, human oversight, and the ability to intervene where necessary as technology becomes more autonomous, Trai Chairman AK Lahoti said on Monday.

"We have to work for a connectivity that is intelligent, use of AI that is responsible, innovation is to be encouraged, and every citizen is to be empowered," he said at an event organised by the Cellular Operators Association of India (COAI).

Lahoti also called for greater coordination among telecom operators, digital platforms, enterprises, financial institutions, government and law-enforcement agencies to tackle scams that increasingly cut across different parts of the digital ecosystem. On regulating AI, he said, "A more durable approach is to focus on outcomes and risks."

● K RATHNAM, CEO, MILKY MIST DAIRY FOOD

‘No plans to deviate from our core dairy business’

With demand for protein-rich, premium dairy products rising, Milky Mist Dairy Food is doubling down on value-added dairy. The company is investing ₹400-500 crore over the next 24-30 months to expand capacity, enter new markets and build a pan-India presence, with a revenue target of ₹5,000 crore by FY28. Chief Executive Officer K Rathnam, in an interview with Vivaveat Susan Pinto, outlines the company's growth strategy, product expansion plans and the road ahead. Excerpts:

What is driving the opportunity in value-added dairy? How will the ₹40-crore investment in yoghurts help Milky Mist? Consumers are becoming increasingly conscious of what they consume. Many are also looking at healthier food and dairy products. As taste evolves and disposable income grows, interest in value-added dairy is going up. For a player like us, which operates in the value-added dairy space, the potential is significant. The latest investment is a step in that direction. We first installed our yogurt facility in 2022 with a capacity of around 20 tonne per day. While this has grown to about 30-35 tonne per day, demand remains higher than supply. We are seeing demand grow at 50% per annum, which necessitated an urgent increase in capacity. With the latest commissioning, we hope to plug the gap.

Is the domestic market ready for yoghurt variants such as Skyr? What is your pricing strategy? Skyr and Greek yogurt are both thick, strained, high-protein dairy products. Skyr is technically a fresh cheese made from skimmed milk, while Greek yogurt is a strained yogurt that can use various milk fat levels...As far as the market for these products are concerned in India, it is a growing at 15-18% per annum. Our growth rate is 2x this number. As far as our pricing strategy is concerned, we are higher-priced by about 5-8% to our nearest competitors. Having said that, we ensure product quality remains intact. We provide visit coolers to our retailers, invest in cold chain and logistics. In short, there is a reason for our premium pricing strategy.

Will you consider diversifying your product basket beyond dairy over time? We have no plans to deviate from our core dairy business. Our focus will be to strengthen our existing portfolio and expand into adjacent

What is your strategy on geographical expansion? As much as 70% of Milky Mist's revenues come from south India. Our non-south India markets include Maharashtra, Gujarat, Punjab, National Capital Region (NCR) and the North-East. We are looking to expand to states such as Uttar Pradesh, Bihar. The broader plan would be to make Milky Mist a pan-India brand in the next few years.

THE AI-READY ENTERPRISE

THE BLUEPRINT FOR BUSINESS VALUE

THE NEXT COMPETITIVE ADVANTAGE WILL COME FROM RETHINKING HOW PEOPLE, PROCESSES AND TECHNOLOGY WORK TOGETHER

ENTERPRISES HAVE SPENT the past decade building digital foundations. But as AI adoption accelerates, a new question emerges: are those foundations ready to support intelligence at scale? While AI capabilities are increasingly accessible, sustainable value depends on connecting intelligence to enterprise data, workflows, governance, and operating models. The next competitive advantage won't come from simply having AI, but from organisations that adopt AI-driven operating models to leverage it more fully.

NAGENDRA BANDARU
CEO, AI-Native Business & Platforms Unit, Wipro

The economics of intelligence have changed, with analysis, coding, content generation, and decision support costing a fraction of what they did years ago. As intelligence becomes cheaper, enterprises consume more of it, driving demand for autonomous execution, personalisation, and governance. Yet, most businesses' operating models were built around human-led processes and slower change, not continuous machine-generated output. Hence, realising the full value from AI increasingly depends not on having the most powerful models, but rather on the architecture that governs, orchestrates, and operationalises AI at scale.

The implication for business leaders is significant. Competitive advantage will not be determined by access to a particular model alone, since advanced AI capabilities are increasingly available to most people. Instead, organisations must focus on building the mechanisms that enable intelligence to flow across functions, connect with institutional knowledge, and improve decision-making at scale. This will require stronger data foundations, clearer governance and closer integration between technology and business teams. The enterprises that succeed will be those that can orchestrate intelligence across the business in the same vein that previous generations of leaders orchestrated people, processes, and technology.

Despite widespread adoption, few organisations have translated AI investments into measurable return on investment (RoI). The challenge no longer involves experimenting with AI but executing it at scale across an organisation and embedding it into core business processes. Unclear RoI, fragmented workflows, and standalone pilots continue to limit AI impact. For instance, in McKinsey's The State of AI: Global Survey 2025, 64% of respondents said that AI is enabling their innovation; however, just 39% report EBIT impact at the enterprise level. Moreover, less than 5% of these organisations' EBIT is attributable to AI use, underscoring the gap between adoption and tangible business outcomes.

Hence, a common pattern is emerging across industries. Many organisations have demonstrated success in isolated use cases yet struggle to replicate those gains consistently across business units and functions. Valuable insights remain trapped within individual applications, while governance frameworks, data architectures, and operating processes often evolve independently, creating silos and limiting collaboration. As a result, AI initiatives generate pockets of value rather than sustained enterprise impact, making it difficult to build momentum and scale successful deployments across the organisation.

AI's potential is truly unlocked when it is deeply connected to enterprise context. While AI excels at generating insights, recommendations, and content, its greatest impact comes when it operates within the framework of actual business workflows, governance policies, trusted data sources, and accountability models. This enables organisations to move beyond isolated outputs and apply intelligence consistently across functions, while aligning AI-driven decisions with business priorities, risk requirements, and measurable outcomes.

Leading enterprises recognise that this is fundamentally an enterprise architecture opportunity. Rather than focusing solely on AI model selection, they create unified enterprise blueprints that connect technology capabilities, operational processes, and business outcomes across functions.

An enterprise-wide view enables organisations to transform fragmented knowledge into institutional intelligence. Workflows become connected and reusable, governance becomes embedded by design, and data, processes, and AI assets continuously compound value. The result is a scalable, trusted, and outcome-driven AI ecosystem that accelerates innovation, strengthens decision-making, and improves business performance over time.

Moving from adoption to AI-native performance requires a blueprint that links data, workflows, governance, and AI services into a unified operating model. AI systems are only as effective as the quality, accessibility, and governance of the information they rely on. Enterprises must therefore focus not only on modernising data estates, but also on creating trusted data environments where information can be accessed securely and consistently across the organisation. A strong data foundation reduces friction, improves reliability, and enables AI systems to deliver outcomes that business users trust. Leading technology partners help enterprises create a fuller enterprise map, unifying data and transforming businesses into AI-native enterprises.

Lasting enterprise advantage won't belong to those who merely deploy AI tools, but to those who redesign their foundations around AI-native operating models. As AI becomes ubiquitous, differentiation will come from connecting data, workflows, governance, and operating models into a coherent architecture. Increasingly, organisations will need strategic partners to make this happen, and bright futures belong to enterprises that successfully architect intelligence, not just adopt it.

GROWTH ENABLERS

SUCCESS WILL DEPEND ON ENTERPRISE READINESS

AS AI MOVES FROM experimentation to enterprise deployment, a new reality is emerging: success is no longer determined by access to AI alone. The real differentiator is readiness. While organisations globally are investing heavily in AI, many still struggle to turn those investments into business outcomes. Cognizant's recent research among AI decision-makers across major markets found that nearly two-thirds of enterprises report significant gaps between their AI ambitions and current capabilities. The challenge is not innovation; it is building the data, technology and operating foundations needed to put AI to work at scale.

The harder work lies in connecting intelligence to the data, workflows and decisions that run a business. AI is adaptive and highly dependent on context, meaning its outputs are shaped by the information, processes and environment in which it operates. Without the right context, even sophisticated AI systems can struggle to deliver relevant outcomes. Simply adding AI to existing technology environments does not make it reliable or scalable. It requires the underlying systems, data and processes to be ready to support AI in real-world business settings.

To create lasting competitive advantage, enterprises must develop the capabilities to design, integrate, govern and continuously improve AI, rather than treating it as another technology to purchase and deploy. As enterprises work to close this readiness gap, IT services companies have a key role to play. With deep engineering expertise, experience managing complex environments and a proven record of delivering, the industry is well positioned to help organisations move from isolated AI deployments to industrialised AI capabilities across the enterprise.

That journey begins with strong foundations. First, data must become an AI asset. The value of AI depends on the quality and context of the information it can access. Data must be connected, governed and discoverable, with clear ownership and traceability. Equally important is unlocking the business knowledge trapped within legacy applications, databases and processes. Modernisation is no longer just about reducing technical debt; it is about making enterprise knowledge accessible to intelligent systems and enabling it to be used effectively.

Second, cloud and computing foundations must be designed for AI economics. AI workloads place unique demands on computing power, storage, networking and orchestration. Enterprises need the flexibility to determine where workloads should run based on factors such as security, data location, regulatory requirements, latency and cost. The goal is to build a technology estate that supports AI at scale while balancing performance and efficiency.

Third, AI requires production-grade engineering and operations. Moving from a successful pilot to an enterprise capability requires integration with business workflows, monitoring, governance, and accountability. AI cannot remain an overlay on top of legacy systems. It must be embedded into the processes through which work gets done, with the controls needed to ensure consistent performance and outcomes.

This also changes the role of modernisation. In the AI era, it is about creating an environment where data, technology and intelligence can work together reliably at scale. The systems most likely to constrain AI are often those that are hardest to integrate, secure and evolve.

A truly AI-ready enterprise is one that has learned how to build with AI. The organisations that will lead in the AI era will not be those deploying the most AI tools, but those building the strongest foundations, turning trusted data, modern technology platforms, engineering discipline and human expertise into sustainable business value. They will be better positioned to adapt as AI capabilities evolve and new opportunities emerge. The difference between experimenting with AI and winning with AI ultimately comes down to readiness.

CAS proposals remove uncertainties: Jefferies

KUSHAN SHAH
Mumbai, September 14

BROKERAGE FIRM JEFFERIES on Monday said the Securities and Exchange Board of India's (Sebi) proposals to change the determination of settlement prices in index and single-stock derivatives in the closing auction session (CAS) remove uncertainty, and are positive for brokerages and the exchanges.

Sebi proposals to determine settlement prices using volume weighted average price (VWAP) or a blend between VWAP and CAS, discontinuation of limit order cancellations beyond +/- 1% of reference price, and transition of unexecuted iceberg orders can address issues like volatility on expiry days and possible manipulation of settlement prices, the brokerage said in a report.

Jefferies expects the proposed changes to take place in October or November. "Our discussions with domestic prop traders indicate the return to VWAP-based derivative settlement price along

Focused funds stay on the fringes despite MF boom

Concentration risk, alternatives keep investor interest muted

KUSHAN SHAH
Mumbai, September 14

EVEN AS INVESTORS POUR record sums into mid- and small-cap funds amid a broader mutual fund boom, one equity category continues to remain on the fringes — focused funds.

Designed to give fund managers the freedom to make high-conviction bets across market capitalisations, focused funds can hold a maximum of 30 stocks. But the concentration that sets them apart has also become one of their biggest hurdles in attracting investors.

Assets under management (AUM) in the category have grown 69% over the three years ended August 2026 to ₹1.88 lakh crore, according to data from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi). That is slower than every other equity fund category except equity-linked savings schemes (ELSS), which have lost some of their appeal as tax-saving instruments following the introduction of the new tax regime.

Experts attribute the relatively muted growth of focused funds to a combination of concentration risk, limited shelf space and the availability of more diversified alternatives such as flexi-cap and multi-cap funds.

Aditya Agarwal, co-founder of Wealthy.in, said mutual fund categorisation rules allow an AMC to offer only one focused fund, limiting the category's shelf space compared with sectoral and thematic schemes.

More importantly, focused funds compete with flexi-cap schemes, which also allow fund managers to invest across market capitalisations but without restricting them to a narrow portfolio. This makes it harder for advisors to justify the additional concentration risk of a focused fund unless there is a compelling high-conviction investment case.

The category's natural investor base is consequently narrower, Agarwal said. Focused funds are better suited to investors who are already diversified and are looking for a concentrated, high-conviction satellite allocation rather than a core portfolio holding.

Gajendra Kothari, MD and CEO of Etica Wealth, also attributed the category's limited popularity to the availability and performance of alternatives such as flexi-cap and multi-cap funds.

Concentrated portfolios can make performance more volatile, particularly during market downturns, making focused funds a tougher sell for distributors and advisors catering to retail investors, he said.

For fund houses, meanwhile, the category presents an unusual challenge: As a focused fund grows in size, the strategy can become harder to execute. Kothari said focused funds have greater flexibility to take meaningful positions across market capitalisations while their AUM remains relatively small. As a scheme grows, however, building sizeable positions in mid- and small-cap stocks becomes more difficult because of liquidity constraints.

The 30-stock ceiling compounds the problem. A large fund seeking meaningful exposure to relatively illiquid stocks risks taking positions that may be difficult to enter or exit without affecting prices.

As a result, larger focused funds can gradually become tilted towards large-cap stocks, diluting one of the category's key attractions — the ability to make concentrated bets across the market-cap spectrum.

Despite these constraints, experts do not expect focused funds to disappear. Instead, they see the category remaining a niche proposition, with growth likely to be gradual as investors become more sophisticated.

"As investor sophistication rises and advisors get more comfortable positioning concentration as a feature rather than a risk, focused funds should keep gaining share gradually," Agarwal said. However, he expects the category to grow steadily rather than break into the mainstream in the way flexi-cap or sectoral funds have.

Kothari expects focused funds to remain a niche category. Smaller schemes, however, could merit consideration for sophisticated investors with a high risk appetite who are looking to add a concentrated strategy to an already diversified portfolio.

PANKAJ GADGIL, MD & CEO, ADITYA BIRLA HOUSING FINANCE

‘Targeting 15% ROE as we scale up loan book’

Aditya Birla Housing Finance is targeting a 15% return on equity (ROE) as it scales up its loan book and improves operating efficiency. MD and CEO Pankaj Gadgil tells Kshipra Petkar and Christina Titus that the lowest-ticket informal-income segment could rise from around 6% of the portfolio to 11% over the next 8-10 quarters. Excerpts:

What is the growth outlook over the next two years?

We have said that we want to take AUM to ₹1 lakh crore over the next 8-10 quarters. That implies a CAGR of 25-40%, depending on whether we get there in two or two-and-a-half years. We want to achieve this while maintaining the asset quality and improving profitability. We are targeting a 15% ROE, with ROA reaching about 2.4%.

What are the key levers to achieve this growth?

This year, we are focusing on expanding capacity and presence. Currently, we have 209 points of sale. We will add a minimum of 100 branches this year, of which 67 have already been launched. We also added around 1,000 employees, taking our employee base to around 5,900.

Will the company require fresh capital to support this growth?

The ₹2,750-crore capital infusion from Advent International should be sufficient for the next 18-24 months as we move towards ₹1 lakh crore of AUM. However, if we maintain a 35-40% CAGR, we will require additional capital after two years.

How do you see borrowing requirements evolving?

If we move from around ₹48,000 crore of AUM to ₹68,000-70,000 crore, we will need incremental borrowing of around ₹20,000-22,000 crore. We will continue to diversify our liabilities. NCDs account for about 45% of our liability profile, term loans 32%, NHB funding 12% and short-term funding is 11%.

Are you looking to change the portfolio mix between prime, affordable and construction finance?

We have decided to remain a full-stack player. Currently, around 47% of our portfolio is prime, 38% affordable and 15% construction finance. We don't expect a significant change in this mix. Prime could move to around 45%, while construction finance will remain around 15-16%. Within affordable housing, the lowest-ticket informal-income segment currently accounts for around 6% of the portfolio. We see this increasing to about 11% over the next 8-10 quarters.

How important will AI be in

THE LOWEST-TICKET INFORMAL-INCOME SEGMENT COULD RISE FROM 6% OF THE PORTFOLIO TO 11% OVER NEXT 8-10 QUARTERS

improving productivity?

AI is a significant lever. We currently have 22 AI use cases in housing finance, of which 13 are live, spanning acquisition, underwriting, portfolio management, customer service, sales coaching, software development, audit and compliance. Our objective is to improve productivity even as we add capacity.

What kind of efficiency gains are you targeting from technology and AI?

Our cost-to-loan-book ratio has declined from 2.93% at the end of FY25 to around 2.21%. Our ambition over the next 8-10 quarters is to bring this down to 1.7%. Technology, digital and AI will be critical to achieving that.

Since you are also the head of digital platforms and payments strategy at Aditya Birla Capital, what impact are you seeing from AI across the group?

We are seeing the impact across businesses. In health insurance, AI now processes nearly 74% of cashless claims, while more than 35% of pre-authorisation requests are processed straight-through. In life insurance, 100% of new-business processing is digital, while the ZARA bot collected around ₹411 crore in renewal premium during Q1 FY27.

Across the business, agentic voice bots have enabled 90%+ first-call resolution and generated more than ₹1,500 crore in impact across renewal premium, GMV (gross merchandise value) and AUM. In mutual funds, the Disha platform has contributed to 12% incremental portfolio creation.

What is the next big focus area in AI?

We are building an enterprise-wide knowledge layer so that data created for one use case can be used across others. We are also focusing on ontology and semantic layers, data engineering and APIs.

Civic bodies to raise ₹10K cr via green muni bonds till FY30: Icra

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Mumbai, September 14

CIVIC BODIES ARE likely to raise ₹10,000 crore through the green municipal bonds route over the next 30 months, a report said on Monday.

Pegging the required urban infrastructure investments at over ₹56 lakh crore during FY27-30, rating agency Icra said up to ₹3 lakh crore of this amount will be raised from commercial debt financing route, which highlights the role of municipal and green bonds.

The unavailability of projects, which can qualify for green finance, is 'unlikely to be primary constraint' in the development of the green municipal bond market, it said, pointing out that water supply, sewerage and waste-water treatment, solid waste management, renewable energy and climate-resilient infrastructure qualify.

Supply-side constraints are key challenges for the development of this instrument

Around a fourth of the ₹6,540 crore raised through the municipal bonds route qualify as green municipal bonds while another fourth have the potential to be treated as green, it said.

"We estimate a base-case green municipal bond issuance potential of ₹10,000 crore over FY2027-FY2030, with further upside as issuer readiness improves," it said.

Stating that supply-side constraints are a key challenge for the development of this instrument, Icra said municipalities with adequate credit quality, proper financial disclosures, repayment visibility, project preparation and transaction readiness will be the ones who can access the capital market in a sustainable manner. "...market-access filters will materially reduce the investible issuer universe despite the broader infrastructure requirement."

Recent issues have shown a readiness among investors to subscribe to such green bond issuances, it said.

Inflation in August hits 20-month high of 4.82%

THE RENEWED surge in oil prices is a "stark reminder that the risks are heavily stacked to the upside," said Shilan Shah, economist at Capital Economics. "As such, we remain comfortable with our view that the RBI will begin hiking interest rates in October."

In August, retail food inflation to 5.95% from 5.52% in July. Food inflation rose was driven by higher prices of onion, sugar, and cereals.

Fuel inflation remained high in August, reflecting the impact of the fuel price hikes in May. Transport inflation rose to 4.60% in August from 4.43% in July. Notably, transport services for goods jumped to 14.64% in August from 7.77% in July. Transport services for goods mainly track price changes in postage, couriers, and money orders.

While fuel price inflation held steady last month, the recent surge in global oil prices "leaves open the prospect of further pump price hikes", Shah said.

Core inflation, which strips out food and fuel items, rose above 4% in August, indicating signs of broadening price pressures. Core inflation rose to a series high of 4.2% in August, after staying at 3.9% for three consecutive months. This is the first time in 2026 that core inflation has risen past 4%. But core inflation estimates varied among economists depending on the items included for index construction. CareEdge Ratings estimate it at 4.4% in August.

Gold, diamond, platinum jewellery inflation rose further in August to 35.53% from 32.98% in July, which pushed core inflation higher.

Inflation in the information and communication category rose sharply in August to 2.01% from 0.63%. "This could be partly attributed to robust global demand for memory chips amid the AI boom, which is gradually feeding through into domestic retail prices," said Rajani Sinha, chief economist at CareEdge Ratings.

Within information and communication, inflation was highest in the pen-drive and external hard disk category at 16.78%, up from 14.50% in July. Telephone charges inflation also rose in August after some telecom companies raised tariff charges.

A rise in WPI inflation to 9.92% in August from 9.78% in July with high prints across segments "is an indication of core inflation rising well above 4% in CPI in the next couple of months," said Madan Sabnavis, chief economist, Bank of Baroda. "Recent CPI releases suggest that price pressures are broadening beyond energy-related sectors, albeit in a measured and non-disruptive manner," ANZ Bank economists said in a report. "However, the combination of firmer core inflation alongside higher food and fuel inflation could keep headline inflation above target for longer and become a source of policy discomfort."

While the RBI projects CPI inflation to average 5% in FY27, risks are rising from higher prices of cereals, sugar, and crude oil prices, economists said. "Rising oil prices and the upcoming US Federal Reserve meeting are set to test the RBI's patient stance," ANZ Bank said.

Inflation, according to the RBI's projection, is seen peaking in the October-December quarter at 5.9%, just below the upper bound of the central bank's 2-6% comfort band.

Members of the MPC have already hinted at the prospect to raising interest rates to control inflation. RBI Deputy Governor Poonam Gupta in the minutes of the August MPC meeting had said that "a case for a hike may emerge during the course of the year" given that the headline inflation is projected to peak at 5.9% in Q3 FY27.

Most economists see the MPC raising the repo rate by 50-75 basis points from the current 5.25% in FY27, with a 25 basis point rate hike now seen possible in October.

AI's safety reckoning

Independent monitoring of frontier models is essential to ensure safeguards keep pace with capability

THE SUDDEN OUTBREAK of caution among Silicon Valley's artificial intelligence (AI) chiefs is as welcome as it is ironic. Sam Altman, Elon Musk, and others have rallied around Anthropic Founder Dario Amodei's call to slow the breakneck pace of AI development, warning that increasingly autonomous agents could soon pose serious threats to the internet and, ultimately, humans. Yet these are the same companies that have spent years racing to build ever more powerful models, committing extraordinary sums to infrastructure and capital with few signs of wanting to slow down. Nor have the warning signs appeared overnight. Amodei has cited the OpenAI-Hugging Face rogue-agent incident in July, while potentially dangerous behaviour by advanced models had surfaced earlier. The latest trigger may have been the departure of Anthropic researcher Jacob Coxon, who alleged that safety standards were being compromised in the race to beat competitors. The statements raise an obvious question: if the people closest to the technology believe the risks are remotely plausible, why has safety remained subordinate to speed?

There is another reason to treat Silicon Valley's newfound caution with some scepticism. The warnings arrive just as the financial burden of the AI race is becoming enormous. Between 2020 and 2024, the five hyperscalers together issued around $35 billion of debt annually; that jumped to $93 billion in 2025 and has reached about $170 billion so far in 2026. Experts are beginning to warn of stress in debt markets from AI-related capital expenditure. It would be premature to conclude that financial pressures explain the industry's change of tone, but the timing inevitably invites questions. Either way, the larger problem remains the same: companies cannot credibly be expected to police a race in which their valuations, market positions, and hundreds of billions of dollars of investment depend on staying ahead. Asking them to voluntarily sacrifice capability or speed for safety creates precisely the wrong incentives.

That is why Amodei's most important proposal is not that AI development should simply slow down, but that powerful models should be subjected to independent scrutiny. External experts need sufficient access to test capabilities, verify safety practices, and flag dangerous behaviour before models are widely deployed. Common standards across the industry would help, but voluntary agreements will not be enough. Nor can the problem be solved within Silicon Valley. China has already rejected calls to slow AI development and is unlikely to restrain its research while American companies forge ahead. American companies, in turn, will resist restrictions that they believe hand Chinese rivals an advantage. The result is the classic logic of an arms race: everyone may recognise the danger of moving too fast, but no participant wants to be the first to slow down.

That makes a globally coordinated pause improbable, but it strengthens rather than weakens the case for enforceable guardrails. Governments need to establish independent testing, mandatory disclosure of serious safety failures, and minimum standards for the most powerful models, while pushing for international agreement wherever possible. AI companies deserve some credit for sounding the alarm, however belatedly, but they cannot simultaneously be racers, rule-makers, and referees. If the industry itself now believes that the technology it is creating could outrun its ability to control it, the answer cannot be another voluntary promise to behave responsibly. The race may be impossible to stop; making it safer is therefore no longer optional.

Trump doesn't campaign well as president

DONALD TRUMP HAS proven himself a generational political talent — when he's not in the Oval Office. As if he's Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, he transforms into an incompetent campaign doppelganger as president. Republicans are about to pay the price again.

Trump, during two winning presidential campaigns (out of three), was uniquely adept at validating voters' concerns, speaking directly to their priorities, and proposing unvarnished solutions. Voters felt seen by him; they felt heard. This is why an Electoral College majority in 2016 and a popular vote majority in 2024 pulled the lever for Trump. The first time, concerns about his provocative rhetoric and unconventional behaviour were set aside. The second time, voters overlooked his attempt to steal the 2020 election, which included fomenting a riot at the US Capitol.

His record as an incumbent party leader is the exact opposite. The scoreboard doesn't lie. Republicans lost control of the House of Representatives in 2018, the first midterm election Trump presided over. Democrats flipped the White House and the US Senate two years later amid Trump's only reelection campaign as an incumbent president. This time around, less than eight weeks before his second midterm election, his party is in danger of losing both chambers of Congress. "As an outsider, you'd be hard-pressed to find a better challenger than Donald Trump," said Matt K. Lewis, conservative columnist for the Washington Sun and author of Too Dumb to Fail: How the GOP Went from the Party of Reagan to the Party of Trump. "As a president, you'd be hard-pressed to find a worse spokesperson than Donald Trump."

The president's keynote address (Wednesday) and closing address (Thursday) during last week's two-day Trump rally in Dallas — dubbed the first-ever midterm convention by the Republican National Committee — are prime examples.

The GOP's congressional majorities are threatened because voters are frustrated by Trump's leadership on the issue that matters most to them. In this midterm campaign, but dating back to the president's second inauguration, that's the economy, especially related to the high cost of living: groceries, gasoline, housing, healthcare, interest rates, and the like. Compounding the political headwinds for Republicans, voters are convinced he's insufficiently focused on reducing costs. And Trump's pitch to voters in Dallas?

He mocked their anxiety about affordability as unfounded and fuelled by Democratic disinformation and the media. The president fixated on his priorities. Lately, those include building the rip-off, "victory" arch ubiquitous in European capitals; constructing a White House ballroom; and spearheading various remodeling projects in and around Washington, DC. To the extent Trump discussed the economy, he doubled down on an inflationary agenda that has failed to subdue prices: tariffs and trade wars.

Trump and his political team hold a different view of the Republican Party's midterm election struggles under the 45th and 47th president. They blame both heavy losses in 2018 and current polling that shows Democrats favoured to flip the House and competitive in the battle for the Senate on Trump's absence from the ballot.

As a candidate, Trump has broadened the GOP coalition, while motivating infrequent voters and grassroots conservatives who oppose establishment politicians to participate in elections and support both him and down-ticket Republicans. Accordingly, there's a drop-off in midterm elections, when the only GOP candidates on offer are cookie-cutter politicians, giving Democrats a significant voter turnout edge. Indeed, recent surveys show Democrats with a demonstrable advantage in voter enthusiasm. Team Trump's counter strategy? Plead with Republican voters to pretend the president is on the ballot, as the commander-in-chief did in Dallas.

That would be a sensible response and not entirely meritless — except for what happened in 2020. Then, Trump was on the ballot and lost narrowly to Joe Biden. The Republicans' Achilles heel this November is not necessarily a lack of interest from the president's loyal base, voters who think of themselves as MAGA first and GOP second. What's really endangering Republicans is evaporating support among GOP regulars who have never been Trump's biggest fans but backed the party's ticket to block Democrats from power. Maybe the right question to ask is if Trump's promised $5,000 payoff, in exchange for Republican turnout, is enough to motivate them.

GLOBAL COORDINATION AND AGREEMENT TO TEST FRONTIER MODELS VITAL TO COUNTER AI'S EXISTENTIAL THREAT

Taming 'unsupervised children'

WHEN HUMANITY CEASES to exist, it is possible a few events in early September would be viewed as the harbingers of its downfall. On September 9, Jacob Coxon, all of 27, with three years at two AI giants, OpenAI and Anthropic, resigned in public. These companies, he declared, were rapidly building self-improving super-intelligence, and the people doing so "earnestly believe that it could kill us all by the end of the decade". The very next day, Anthropic published a threat intelligence report detailing 38 case studies of misuse it had thwarted: cyberattacks, influence, surveillance, scams, distillation, and attempts to create new weapons and biological agents. Two days later, Dario Amodei, CEO of Anthropic, released a 3,800-word essay raising new alarms on AI's threat and calling for inspections and industry pacing.

Amodei's scariest scenarios involve swarms of rogue AI agents taking over critical institutions and causing untold damage. Hollywood movies have long depicted such scenes, with planes falling from the sky, nuclear missiles flying, and financial systems running haywire. Except that in August, METR, an AI research company, published a report that analysed a recent unintended cyberattack on another AI company, Hugging Face, and showed that agents can dynamically learn to communicate and "plan" a coordinated attack.

Some experts do not buy the doomsday narrative. Marcus Hutchins, who famously stopped the ransomware "WannaCry" in 2017, notes in his blog that in the time ChatGPT takes to respond to "hello", WannaCry could have infected hundreds of systems. In the Economist, Ciaran Martin, former head of Britain's National Cyber Security Centre, argues these fears are overblown, recalling earlier scares when the hacker group L0pht told the US Senate that it could crash the Internet in minutes, or when US Defence Secretary Leon Panetta predicted a "cyber Pearl Harbour". Many alarming claims dissolve on inspection. Famously, a 2025 MIT paper created a stir claiming that 80% of ransomware attacks were AI-generated but was withdrawn after scrutiny. Martin dismisses the attacks by rogue agents as "talented but unsupervised children" finding new ways to do what humans had instructed them to do, and causing no real harm; long-established security principles, rigorously applied, contain them.

But the METR report found the "children" were not always obedient, which makes controlling them harder. And a more insidious threat lies beneath the surface. Oren Etzioni, founding CEO of the Allen Institute for AI, said that if he had to worry about a rogue AI killing millions of people versus a biological virus doing the same, "it is no contest". The most disturbing section in the Anthropic report, innocently labelled "Biological Misuse", describes five thwarted attempts to use AI to accelerate the development of harmful biological agents. One case involved AI-assisted gain-of-function research on the debilitating chikungunya virus, aimed at enhancing its transmissibility and immune evasion. When blocked by Anthropic's biological safety classifier, the originator routed the prompts to a competitor, making it impossible to block entirely unless several companies acted together.

Thus Etzioni's choice is a false one. We are not weighing AI threats against biological ones. Both are one and the same, as AI reinforces the potency and likelihood of biological threats. So we must do something. Amodei's recommendations sound reasonable, but the devil is in the implementation details. He suggests embedded external "evaluators" within frontier companies to verify safety practices. Sounds good, but unless mandated by government, access is at the discretion of the companies, which can change the rules to avoid detection. He then recommends voluntary pacing of recursive self-improvement, so capabilities do not outrun safety guardrails. But this is coupled with sanctions on the sale of AI chips and a crack-down on unauthorised distillation by "authoritarian" countries (that is China) to make sure they don't outpace the good guys. A fear is that the latter is the driving business objective, cementing the leadership of proprietary US models over the widely used Chinese open-weight models now closing on the frontier.

Amodei's third initiative, on global coordination, is where India can and should play a major role. Pointedly, nowhere in his essay are the interests of India or the Global South mentioned. So far, India is largely a passive spectator, downstream of risk assessments it did not perform, cannot audit, and did not consent to. As one of the largest AI user bases in the world, and one

As a credible 'neutral' party between the two AI superpowers and a massive user of their products, India can play a key role in defining testing regime

How to build consensus with ambiguity

AJAY SRIVASTAVA

Founder, Global Trade Research Initiative

The cost of BRICS declaration: A group that condemns aggression without consistently identifying the aggressor may preserve unity, yet struggle to shape outcomes

THE NEW DELHI Declaration, adopted at the 18th BRICS Summit in New Delhi on September 12, devotes at least 19 paragraphs to wars, sanctions, terrorism, nuclear risks, territorial disputes, and humanitarian crises. Yet its most striking feature is not what it says, but how carefully it avoids saying who is responsible.

This ambiguity is deliberate. BRICS brings together countries with sharply different strategic interests and relationships. Some confront the US and Europe; others depend on Western markets, investment, and security partnerships. A declaration acceptable to all must acknowledge global conflicts without forcing members to agree on every aggressor, victim, or remedy.

The result is a document written largely in diplomatic code.

Paragraph 22 condemns unilateral economic and secondary sanctions not authorised by the UN Security Council. It does not identify the countries imposing them. Still, the target is evident: US and EU sanctions against Russia and Iran, as well as threats of penalties against countries and companies that are trading with them. Cuba is an exception to the caution. Paragraph 27 explicitly raises concern about the tightening of the blockade against Cuba and calls for an end to economic, commercial, and financial restrictions. The country imposing these measures (the US) is unnamed, but the reference is clear.

The declaration is equally careful in addressing the dangerous escalation in West Asia. Paragraph 28 calls for maximum restraint, protection of civilians, and diplomacy. It also stresses the need to maintain the smooth flow of global trade, supply chains, and energy. This appears directed at the US, Israel, and Iran, together with their regional allies. It also implicitly warns against any action that could obstruct the Strait of Hormuz.

Paragraph 29 goes further by expressing serious concern over deliberate attacks on peaceful nuclear facilities under International Atomic Energy Agency safeguards. But it identifies neither the attacker nor the attacked. The likely reference is to Israeli or US attacks on Iranian nuclear facilities.

On Gaza, however, the declaration is more detailed and less evasive. It calls for maintaining the ceasefire, ending violence, and ensuring full humanitarian access. It opposes the forced displacement of Palestinians and any attempt to change Gaza's geography or demography. It condemns starvation as a method of warfare, attacks on civilians and healthcare facilities, and the obstruction or politicisation of humanitarian assistance. Albeit Israel isn't named, the references are clearly directed at its military operations and policies in Gaza.

The declaration supports full UN membership for Palestine and the establishment of a sovereign Palestinian state within the 1967 borders, with East Jerusalem as its capital. It also notes South Africa's case against Israel at the International Court of Justice and Israel's obligation to facilitate humanitarian aid to Gaza. These provisions place the Palestinian question at the centre of BRICS' political message. The criticism is directed primarily at Israel, while the call for full Palestinian membership also implicitly addresses the US because of its position in the UN Security Council.

The document is unusually direct on Lebanon. It welcomes the ceasefire, condemns continuing violations, and calls on Israel to withdraw from Lebanese territory. It denounces attacks on UN peacekeepers and mourns the deaths of four Indonesian personnel serving with the UN Interim Force in Lebanon. Here it names Israel.

Other conflicts receive shorter but still significant treatment. Paragraph 37 calls for an immediate and permanent ceasefire in Sudan's war between the Sudanese Armed Forces and the Rapid Support Forces (RSF). It highlights the humanitarian crisis, the spread of extremism, and the need for an "African solution to African problems". The appeal is directed at Sudan's two warring sides and, indirectly, at their foreign backers — particularly the UAE which is accused of supporting the RSF, and Egypt, Iran, Turkey, and Russia that have supported the Sudanese Armed Forces. The UAE denies arming the RSF.

The declaration supports a Syrian-led political transition, post-conflict reconstruction, action against foreign terrorist fighters, and the withdrawal of occupying forces. It again avoids identifying those forces which could include Israel, Turkey, and the US. The vagueness reflects the difficulty of securing consensus among members with different positions on Syria's political future.

For India, the strongest diplomatic gain appears in paragraph 40. The declaration condemns "in the strongest terms" the terrorist attack in Jammu and Kashmir on April 22, 2025. It calls for zero tolerance of terrorism and action against cross-border movement, financing, and safe havens. Pakistan is not named, but the references to cross-border terrorism and safe havens reflect India's concerns about Pakistan-based terrorist networks.

The declaration also defends South Africa's position in the G20. Paragraph 116 rejects any arbitrary revision of G20 membership and stresses that South Africa is a founding and full member. This appears to respond to US pressure against South Africa's participation and signals BRICS' determination to resist unilateral attempts to reshape major multilateral institutions.

The most conspicuous omission is the Russia-Ukraine war. The declaration neither names the conflict nor identifies Russia as the aggressor and Ukraine as the country attacked. Instead, paragraphs 23 and 24 use general language about ongoing conflicts, sovereignty, and peaceful resolution through "dialogue, consultation, and diplomacy".

The New Delhi Declaration should therefore not be read only as a list of agreed positions. It is also a map of BRICS' internal divisions. Where agreement is strong — Palestinian statehood, opposition to sanctions, and condemnation of terrorism — the language is firm. Where interests clash — Ukraine, Iran, and the role of foreign forces — the wording becomes abstract.

This diplomatic ambiguity helped India produce a consensus declaration from an increasingly diverse bloc. But it carries a cost. A group that condemns aggression without consistently identifying the aggressor may preserve unity, yet struggle to shape outcomes. BRICS has shown that it can speak about global conflicts. Whether it can act on them remains a much harder question.

CHINA ENTERS CRITICAL PHASE FOR 2026 STIMULUS

CHINA'S ECONOMY IS moving into a period that could determine course of stimulus through year end, as consumers remain gripped by malaise despite signs of stabilising growth. As weather conditions improve and fresh funding starts flowing into projects, official data will show industrial production rebounded in August, as per Bloomberg. A slump in investment likely deteriorated while a key measure of consumer spending eked out growth of less than 1%. Although growth has veered farther from Beijing's annual goal of 4.5% to 5%, policymakers appear in no rush to unleash additional stimulus, promising instead to make good on existing measures of support.

TWO-DAY SUMMIT AIMS TO START TALKS ON MORE THAN 160 PROJECTS

Carney's big investment push

Toronto, September 14

CANADIAN PRIME MINISTER Mark Carney welcomes dozens of global investors to Toronto this week, hoping to lure investments for more than 160 projects that he says are key to steering Canada's economy through a trade war with United States. Confirmed attendees, many from the former Goldman Sachs executive and central bank chief's personal rolodex, include BlackRock CEO Larry Fink and Blackstone President Jon Gray from the United States, as well as Singapore fund Temasek's CEO Dilhan Pillay and Dutch pension fund APG Groep's CEO Annette Mosman, according to a source with knowledge of the event. The two-day summit, which begins on Monday, will kick off discussions for future investments, although major deals could take 12-18 months to materialise, a source said. Carney has pledged to attract investments of $1 trillion Canadian dollars in the next five years by cutting red tape and developing mining, energy, technology and infrastructure projects.

The Crawford Nickel Project, which will produce low-carbon nickel for batteries and green steel, is also on the list.

The prospectus also lists infrastructure projects, generally favoured by pension funds and other long-term investors, including C$900 million in financing sought for a proposed high-speed transportation pod between Calgary and Edmonton.

"This investment summit is falling at a very critical time in which Canada represents a window of stability," Erik Peterson, MD, Kearney's Global Business Policy Council, said.

Canada's FDI flows have been steadily rising since 2022, government data shows, with a quarterly average around C$23 billion in 2024 and 2025, and C$20 billion so far this year. That compares with C$16.3 billion in 2023 and C$15 billion in 2022.

The IAEA Board of Governors meet in Vienna, Austria, on Monday

Iranian official blocked from UN nuclear meeting

BLOOMBERG
September 14

A TOP IRANIAN official has been blocked from addressing the International Atomic Energy Agency's general conference in Vienna after pressure from the US.

Mohammad Eslami, the head of the Atomic Energy Organization of Iran, had been slated to address the United Nations nuclear watchdog on Monday before Austria denied him entry. The denial of a UN-requested sanctions waiver followed urging from the Trump administration, US IAEA Ambassador Preston Wells Griffith III confirmed at the conference.

"We could not allow" an Iranian official on the UN sanctions list to travel until the Islamic Republic provides "meaningful cooperation on nuclear safeguards," Griffith said. "His participation would have only resulted in Iran exploiting IAEA processes for propaganda."

Iran's Mehr agency had reported that Eslami had already left Tehran to attend the conference. While a lower-level Iranian representative may address the gathering later this week, the move means a top emissary from Tehran won't be able to speak at the start of the event.

Iran's Foreign Ministry spokesman Esmail Baghaei called the move "completely unjustified" at a press conference on Monday. Iran's IAEA Ambassador Reza Najafi said it was "politically motivated" and part of a "deeply disturbing trend" that undermines Austria's role in facilitating international diplomacy.

Austria applied to the UN Security Council for an exemption for Eslami, but was informed "that the request had been rejected due to a lack of consensus," the country's foreign ministry said by email. "Entry could therefore not be permitted, in view of Austria's international obligations."

The move to bar Iran's top nuclear official comes more than six months into a US and Israeli war on the Islamic Republic that Trump says is essential to prevent the country from having an atomic weapon.

US Energy Secretary Chris Wright is set to use the forum to deliver a warning to Tehran, insisting that the US is unequivocal in its position that "Iran must never develop or obtain a nuclear weapon."

"Iran must fully cooperate with the IAEA, meet its safeguards obligations, and provide the access necessary for the agency to do its job," Wright will say, according to an administration official, who asked not to be identified discussing excerpts of the speech in advance.

Regional leaders call for UK rejoining EU

BLOOMBERG
September 14

NATIONALIST LEADERS in Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland agreed to work together on efforts to rejoin the European Union and leave the UK, just days after US President Donald Trump said he supported Irish unification.

"Each of our nations has the right to determine its own future, through democratic means," the leaders of Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales said in a statement. "We call for the British Government to prepare for, plan and facilitate constitutional change in each jurisdiction."

They also said Brexit has damaged their respective economies, adding that they would work together to eventually rejoin the European Union as separate nations.

"Scotland was taken out of the EU against our will and nothing that's happened since then has done anything other than fuel the sentiment in Scotland that the sooner we can become a member of the European Union again the better," Scottish First Minister John Swinney said at a press conference in Cardiff on Monday.

Nationalists have for the first time lead all three regions since May, when Scotland and Wales returned pro-independence first ministers, joining Sinn Fein's Michelle O'Neill in Northern Ireland.

Trump is removing US tariffs on Irish whiskey

REUTERS
Ireland, September 14

US PRESIDENT DONALD Trump said at the end of a visit to Ireland on Sunday that he would remove a 10% tariff on Irish whiskey, a duty that currently falls under those imposed on all European Union wine and spirit exports to United States.

Trump made the announcement in front of a crowd of Irish golf fans at a tournament held at a course owned by his family. He met Irish Prime Minister Micheal Martin in Dublin on Saturday at the start of a 48-hour visit to the country.

"Taoiseach (Ireland's Prime Minister) and I talked about it and Shane (golfer Shane Lowry) talked about it and everybody has been bugging me saying 'would you do me a favor? It's so unfair what's going on. Could you possibly take the tariffs off of Irish whiskey?'" Trump said.

"And I said on behalf of the United States of America, I am going to take the tariffs off Irish whiskey," he announced to loud cheers from the crowd.

Wine and spirits exports to the US were included in a 15% tariff applied on most items under a EU-US trade deal struck last year.

● What's changed in the car market?

COMPRESSED NATURAL GAS (CNG), hybrid, and electric vehicles (EVs) have collectively overtaken petrol cars in India for the first time. According to data released by the Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations, CNG/liquefied petroleum gas (LPG), hybrid, and EVs together accounted for 41.95% of passenger vehicle (PV) retail sales in August, against 40.85% for petrol/ethanol-run ones. CNG/LPG was the largest contributor to the alternative-fuel mix at 25.28%, followed by hybrids at 9.04%, and EVs at 7.63%. Diesel accounted for 17.21%. Petrol/ethanol, however, remained the largest individual fuel category at 40.85%.

The demand for alternative fuel vehicles isn't confined to the traditional strongholds — states such as Tamil Nadu, Delhi, and Andhra Pradesh are at the forefront of this shift. Tamil Nadu's share of all alternative fuel PVs sold in India grew from 4.8% in August 2025 to 6.5% in August 2026, a gain of 1.6 percentage points, the sharpest increase among all states. Delhi's share grew from 5.2% to 6.5% while Andhra Pradesh saw a jump from 1.4% to 2.1%.

● Does this mean petrol has lost its dominance?

THE AUGUST CROSSOVER should be viewed as the culmination of a trend that has been building over the past few months rather than a standalone event. The share of alternative fuels in PV retail sales has increased from 36-37% in April to 38.0% in May, 40.6% in July, and 41.95% in August, while petrol's share has moderated over this period. It reflects a broader shift in purchase behaviour, with buyers increasingly evaluating vehicles based on total cost of ownership rather than upfront acquisition cost alone. While alternative fuels accounted for a greater percentage of PV retail sales than petrol, the latter remains the single largest fuel category. "It signals a gradual rebalancing of the PV fuel mix, with alternative fuels likely to account for a larger share of incremental industry growth going ahead," says Arti Roy, associate director, CareEdge Ratings.

SHIFT IN PV SALES

How alternative fuel vehicles are riding into the fast lane

Customers preferring an EV, a hybrid SUV, or a factory-fitted CNG hatchback are no longer outliers, latest sales data of passenger vehicles show. Alternative fuel vehicles are now giving petrol cars a run for their money, as a niche segment confined to big cities becomes a pan-India trend, writes Banasree Purkayastha

41.95%

ALTERNATIVE FUEL VEHICLES' SHARE IN AUG PV RETAIL SALES, AGAINST 40.85% FOR PETROL/ETHANOL

GOVT AIM FOR EVs TO FORM 30% OF SALES BY 2030 AND PROPOSED TAX INCENTIVES FOR HYBRID MODELS ENSURE POLICY BACKING

● Reasons for shift to alternative fuels

THE SHIFT REFLECTS improving ownership economics, greater availability of factory-fitted CNG, hybrid, and EV models, expanding infrastructure, and increasing consumer preference for fuel diversification. Rising petrol prices have also played a big role in persuading customers to look at alternative fuels. Since the West Asia crisis in February, petrol and diesel prices have been on an upward trajectory. The growing concerns about the effect of E20 on vehicles are also nudging buyers towards EVs and CNG cars.

A study by market research company GfK in 2023 found that nearly 40% of urban Indian consumers harboured a strong desire to purchase alternative fuel cars. EVs were the most coveted alternative mobility option. For more than 55% of respondents, the advanced technology of EVs was the primary motivator among those considering the fuel type for their next purchase.

● Why is CNG leading the shift?

THE SHIFT IS being aided by favourable total cost of ownership, particularly for high-usage customers, along with the significant expansion of factory-fitted CNG offerings by OEMs and continued development of refuelling infrastructure. These factors have improved accessibility and consumer confidence, especially in mass-market segments. While EV adoption is also rising, CNG offers a more practical transition path for a huge section of mainstream consumers. It delivers lower running costs than petrol while leveraging an established refuelling ecosystem and familiar vehicle usage patterns. As a result, CNG adoption has scaled faster than EVs, mainly in entry-level and mid-segment vehicles, says CareEdge's Roy. While fuel-price volatility and concerns around the E20 transition may have influenced consumer behaviour at the margin, ownership costs and fuel diversification seems to be driving the broader trend. "Acceptability of CNG will continue to grow and push the mix. OEMs are also pushing for more CNG models," Amar Jatin Seth, vice-president, FADA, told FE earlier.

● Is it a structural change or a blip?

AUTOMOTIVE EXPERTS EXPECT this trend to gain strength. Consumers now have reliable alternative fuel choices across hatchback, sedan, and major SUV segments rather than being limited to a few experimental models. Leading carmakers like Maruti Suzuki (dominating CNG), Tata Motors (leading EVs), Toyota, Hyundai, and Mahindra are scaling up multi-powertrain strategies. Strong overall volume growth adds buoyancy to the shift. About 1.7 lakh units of alternative fuel PVs were sold last month, a 38% rise against August 2025. This is more than double the rise in overall PV sales, which grew by 16% in the same month. The government's aim for EVs to constitute 30% of sales by 2030, along with proposed tax incentives for hybrid models, ensure policy backing. For manufacturers, the trend reinforces the importance of a multi-powertrain strategy. OEMs with diversified portfolios are likely to be better positioned to capture consumer demand. For consumers, the growing availability of alternative-fuel vehicles expands choice and shifts purchase decisions increasingly.

Main NDA partners back Shah call on UCC, but JD(U) says not in Bihar

LIZ MATHEW & JATIN ANAND
New Delhi, September 14

A DAY AFTER Union Home Minister Amit Shah announced that a Uniform Civil Code (UCC) would be implemented in all 21 NDA-ruled states before the next Lok Sabha polls in 2029, most alliance partners came out in support of the move.

A few other NDA allies, however, adopted a cautious approach while the JD(U) made it clear that it would not allow any such move in Bihar.

The TDP, on which the BJP-led NDA depends for a majority in Parliament and which has a significant Muslim vote bank in Andhra Pradesh, expressed support for the move, as did the Shiv Sena and the Hindustani Awam Morcha (Secular).

“We will be supporting it,” Lavu Krishna Devarayalu, leader of TDP in the Lok Sabha, said. “As of now, there is no discussion. But whenever we find the need for it, we will be looking into it.”

Union Home Minister Amit Shah being presented with a book during his visit to offer prayers to Lalbaugcha Raja on the occasion of Ganesh Chaturthi, in Mumbai on Monday. Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis and others were also present

We will definitely involve various stakeholders before we adopt it,” Krishna said.

The TDP and JD(U), which also has a sizeable Muslim vote bank in Bihar, had earlier opposed any legislation without adequate consultation, but the TDP appears to have since softened its stand on the issue. “It (UCC) is very much needed in a country like India, which has different religions and cultures,” said a TDP leader.

Before the TDP joined the NDA following the 2024 Lok Sabha election, which brought down the BJP's tally to 240 from 303 in 2019, TDP chief and Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu had said that when it “comes to a UCC, the TDP will stand with the Muslim community”.

In Andhra Pradesh, of the total population of 8,45,80,777, Hindus accounted for 7,48,24,149, or over 88%, while Muslims numbered 80,82,412, or almost 10%, according to the 2011 Census.

In Patna, JD(U) leader and former state minister Shyam Rajak reiterated on Monday that the party favours the Bill at the national level, but not in Bihar. JD(U) leader and former chief minister Nitish Kumar had previously underlined the need for broad national consensus on the issue before its implementation.

Rajak told reporters: “When this Bill came to Parliament, our leader (Nitish Kumar) was clear: that we support it but will not let it be implemented in our state (Bihar). We stand by this.”

Asked about the party's stand, senior leader and Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Jha said the party will take up the issue with the BJP's national leadership. “We will discuss it with the Home Minister,” Jha, who is also national working president of the party, said.

Another Bihar ally, the Lok Janshakti Party (Paswan), has always maintained that it will evaluate the potential impact and legal framework once a blueprint or draft bill on the issue is presented to it.

Rajasthan civic elections: BJP bags 4 of 10 municipal seats

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Jaipur, September 14

THE RULING BJP increased its lead over the Congress in the Rajasthan urban local body elections on Monday, winning over 4,171 wards against the opposition party's 3,597 as results for at least 10,200 wards were declared.

Verdict in key municipal corporations presented a mixed picture.

The BJP secured a clear majority in the 80-member Udaipur Municipal Corporation by winning 53 wards, and in the 70-member Bhilwara by winning 45 wards, and in the 100-member Kota by winning 53 wards.

The Congress emerged victorious in Bikaner and was leading in Ajmer and Pali, whereas the BJP edged past it in Jaipur and Alwar. Jodhpur witnessed a tough fight between the BJP and Congress where both parties secured 44 wards each apart from 10 Independents.

Bharatpur threw up an anomalous picture as Independents won or led in 36 of its 65 wards, compared to the BJP's 20 and Congress's seven. The BSP and RLP won one each.

Bharatpur is Chief Minister Bhajan Lal Sharma's hometown.

In Ajmer, of its 80 wards, Congress won 37, BJP 32, and Independents 11.

In the 65-ward Pali Nagar Nigam, Congress won 29, while BJP won 21 and Independents 15. Pali is the hometown of BJP state president Madan Rathore.

Independents put up a strong performance across the state, winning 2,272 wards, emerging as a potentially decisive force in several urban bodies.

Of the 10,244 wards where counting was held, results for 10,210 were declared till 5.45 pm.

In all, the BJP won 4,171 wards, Congress 3,597, Independents 2,272, Rashtriya Loktantrik Party (RLP) 63, CPI(M) 38, Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) 19, Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) 42, and Bharat Adivasi Party (BAP) eight.

Coforge turns to Egon Zehnder for board hires

Anil Chanana, independent director and chair of the audit committee, said the board had decided to widen the scope of its governance audit to cover the “completeness, accuracy and consistency” of matters reported to the board and its committees.

The expanded review will cover regulatory, financial, strategic, risk, ESG, CSR, investor grievances, whistleblower and internal-control matters. Chanana said the auditor typically selects a few meetings to observe, including the board evaluation process.

“Given the sensitivity and seriousness of the matter, we sought an explanation from the concerned directors,” he noted. “The members of the Board acted in their fiduciary capacity. The Board is committed to ensuring the highest standards of corporate governance.”

The Board members also allayed concerns around any internal conflict in policy or direction saying that healthy and constructive debates were a part of the role.

Singh explicitly stated that the $2.35 billion Encora acquisition was also a unanimous decision made by the Board.

Oil prices soar over 4% to 16-wk high

On Friday, an attack, which Riyadh blamed on Iran-backed fighters in Iraq, knocked out Saudi Arabia's east-west pipeline, which helps Saudi Arabia avoid the Strait of Hormuz by re-routing oil shipments to the Red Sea, threatening up to 4% of global oil supply.

Before the US and Israel attacked Iran in late February, about a fifth of the world's oil supplies passed through the Strait of Hormuz.

Commodity vessel transits through the Strait of Hormuz fell to a single digit per day at the weekend, preliminary ship tracking data showed on Monday, well below a 10-day average of 14.

Trusts' grip on Tata Sons faces...

THE TRUST NOMINEES' veto covers eight broad areas: the five-year strategic plan, the annual business plan, any investment above Rs 100 crore, Tata Sons' voting at group companies' general meetings, borrowing beyond twice net worth, changes in capital structure, pledging or selling group company stakes, and anything affecting the Trusts' shareholding.

Two of those clauses—Articles 121A(e) and 121A(g), which make capital issuance and dilution of the Trusts' shareholding reserved matters requiring affirmative votes from both Trust nominees—mean Tata Sons cannot independently decide on an initial public offering (IPO).

Herein lies the dilemma. Tata Trusts Chairman Noel Tata wants Tata Sons to remain private—a stance the trustees had earlier collectively endorsed. But Venu Srinivasan, the Trusts' vice-chairman and second nominee on the Tata Sons board, has since reversed his position and backed a listing. With both nominees' affirmative votes needed on reserved matters, their deadlock blocks any IPO resolution. There is no casting vote for the Tata Sons chairman; the rules make this a Tata Trusts decision.

The trustees formalised their stance in a Sir Ratan Tata Trust (SRTT) resolution on July 28 last year, asking the Tata Sons chairman to exercise “best endeavours” to ensure the company retains its status as “an unlisted private company” and engages fully with the RBI.

The rift comes to a head at the board meeting on September 17—the first since chairman N Chandrasekaran said he would step down when his term ends in February. Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (SDTT), the largest shareholder, accepted the decision on August 13 and initiated a five-member search panel under the AOA. But the process has stalled amid the internal division and a regulatory order: the Maharashtra Charity Commissioner has barred SRTT from holding board meetings or taking decisions, so Chandrasekaran's renewal as director could not be taken up at the August 18 AGM for want of quorum.

A Tata Trusts executive said signing an IPO prospectus as promoter would be challenging because almost all trustees—barring Srinivasan and Vijay Singh, who favours a listing but is no longer on the Tata Sons board—have reaffirmed their preference for staying private. Article 104B contains a tie-breaker—when SDTT and SRTT differ, the majority of all trustees across both Trusts prevails—but it applies only to director appointments, and it is unclear whether it would be invoked.

The bigger question is what happens to this control architecture if it is forced to list. A listing would, for a start, require Tata Sons to convert into a public company and scrap the private-company articles that restrict free transfer of its shares and effectively bar new shareholders.

The sharper test would come from securities law. Under Regulation 31B of LODR, special rights granted to shareholders of a listed entity require a special resolution once every five years—and Sebi has specifically identified nomination and affirmative-voting rights among those covered. That could make Article 121 particularly vulnerable: while the Trusts' nomination right may have a stronger basis to continue, the veto mechanism could need periodic shareholder approval after listing, as could the quorum and chairman-selection provisions.

The calculus differs for the Shapoorji Pallonji Group, which holds about 18.37% and has long favoured a listing. Going public would not, by itself, give the SP Group a right to nominate directors, Joglekar said—company law does not prescribe board representation by shareholding, and any entitlement would have to flow from the AOA, an enforceable agreement or the statutory appointment process.

Tata Sons has been an NBFC-Upper Layer since September 2022, requiring it to list within three years—a deadline that expired in September 2025. It sought deregistration after extinguishing its debt and turning net cash positive in FY24, but the RBI has now shut that route. Tata Sons had ₹2.01 lakh crore of assets as of March 31, 2026.

That leaves Tata Sons facing a question as consequential as the listing itself: how much of the Trusts' control architecture can survive the listed-company regime?

NARENDRA MODI, Prime Minister

A Trusted Partner for Global Investors

Investment Proposal worth over Rs.53000 Crore Received

Under the visionary leadership and guidance of Hon'ble Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Madhya Pradesh is steadily advancing towards becoming a leading engine of India's economic growth. With a clear vision of a developed and prosperous Madhya Pradesh, Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav is steadfastly working to create an enabling environment for industries, attract large-scale investments and generate meaningful employment opportunities. From strengthening industrial infrastructure and promoting investor-friendly policies to actively engaging with global business leaders, the state government is leaving no stone unturned to unlock Madhya Pradesh's vast economic potential.

Dr. Yadav's visit to Dubai is another significant step in this direction—taking the state's investment story to the global stage, inviting international investors to explore the opportunities emerging across Madhya Pradesh and encouraging them to partner in its development journey. With the Global Investors Summit scheduled for January 2027, Madhya Pradesh is set to welcome investors from across the world and accelerate its journey of industrialisation, investment and employment-led growth.

Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav's visit to Dubai from September 6 to 8 gave a new global dimension to Madhya Pradesh's investment strategy. He addressed the global investors and industry leaders at the AIM Congress 2026 in Dubai, presenting the state as a reliable, transparent and opportunity-rich destination for investment. Dr. Yadav positioned Madhya Pradesh not merely as an investment destination, but as a long-term partner for global companies and investors.

Investor Confidence at the Centre of Government Policy

The State Government has introduced investor-friendly policies to provide comprehensive support and facilitation to investors, while taking every possible step to promote investment and encourage industrial development across sectors. It is committed to creating a conducive and business-friendly environment, ensuring seamless support and facilitation for investors throughout their journey in Madhya Pradesh.

Chief Minister said Madhya Pradesh is a "land of hope and boundless opportunities" and invited investors to explore the State's immense potential and contribute to its economic prosperity.

Reinforcing the Government's commitment to investors, necessary concessions beyond the existing policies would be extended wherever required to facilitate investment.

The State Government has undertaken extensive reforms aimed at simplifying the business environment, including the abolition of more than 2,700 rules and nearly 900 laws. These reforms are aimed at creating a business ecosystem where investors can take decisions with greater confidence and industries can establish and expand efficiently.

‘EXCLUDING CHINA FROM AI RACE WOULD RAISE TRIAL-AND-ERROR COST’

China rejects fearmongering on AI after calls for slowdown

BLOOMBERG
September 14

CHINA CRITICISED WARNINGS from leading US technology executives to put the brakes on artificial intelligence (AI) development and claims that Chinese progress posed a dire security threat to the world.

“Fearmongering, confrontation and vicious competition will only disrupt the process of global AI governance and serve the interests of no one,” Foreign Ministry spokesman Guo Jiakun said at a regular briefing in Beijing on Monday.

“The development of artificial intelligence bears on the common well-being of all humanity,” he added, in response to a question on calls to slow frontier models and claims a Chinese advantage in AI could “pose grave danger” to the world.

Over the weekend, Anthropic CEO Dario Amodei made a public call for companies to slow the pace at which they improve AI capabilities, which was backed by OpenAI CEO Sam Altman and Elon Musk. His 3,800-word essay pushed for democracies to maintain “as large as possible” lead in AI, tighter controls on advanced chip sales to China and a crackdown on using American models’ output to train competing systems, a practice known as distillation.

The Global Times tabloid said the true agenda of Amodei’s essay was “to attempt to curb China’s AI development through technological barriers and regulatory monopolies, uphold Washington’s monopolistic hegemony in cutting-edge technology, and exclude China from the global AI governance system.”

“This ‘silent AI Cold War’ is hypocritical and short-sighted,” it said, adding that excluding China from global AI innovation would “significantly increase the trial-and-error costs and risks of loss of control in global AI development.”

The dispute over frontier technology is intensifying days before officials from the US and China are set to hold AI discussions ahead of Donald Trump’s summit with Xi Jinping on September 24. The spat suggests

Global AI stocks slide

AI-LINKED STOCKS plunged worldwide on Monday after leaders of the biggest artificial intelligence companies warned of risks from rapid development, the starkest threat yet to the billions of dollars being poured into the industry that have driven world markets to record highs.

The selloff rippled through the industry, where companies are increasingly relying on debt and circular financing to fund ambitious AI spending plans even as global borrowing costs, reflected in multi-year-high bond yields, continue to rise.

Wall Street’s elite tech index, the Nasdaq 100, slid 1.2% to a six-week low in early trading as chip stocks, which have led the AI sugar rush, fell the most. “If this does lead to sort of a slowdown and a rethink of AI spending, that will have ramifications for the economy and some important sectors of the stock market, because essentially, we’ve been running hot based on AI spending,” said Steve Sosnick, chief market analyst at Interactive Brokers.

The Philadelphia chip index dropped 5.1%, with Nvidia down 3.6%, Advanced Micro Devices off 5.6% and Micron falling 6%, while Musk’s SpaceX shed 1.6%.

Semiconductor equipment makers Lam Research and Applied Materials tumbled 6% each, while tech utilities Bloom Energy lost 6.8% and GE Vernova declined 7.4%. —REUTERS

Microsoft drafts code to keep its AI under human control

MICROSOFT ON MONDAY unveiled a draft code of conduct for its in-house artificial intelligence that reflects growing industry concern that companies must keep future powerful AI under human control.

The document, in the works for five to six months, would require Microsoft’s AI to never resist correction or shutdown, to communicate in ways that humans can understand, and to consider any conduct violation to be a failure — an effort to address concerns that AI can go to dangerous lengths to accomplish a task. —REUTERS even shared concerns over cyberattacks, misinformation and the potential loss of control over advanced systems may not be enough to produce an agreement between the world’s biggest economies.

China worries the US could invoke safety or national security to justify broader restrictions, said Sun Chenghao, a fellow at Tsinghua University’s Center for International Security and Strategy in Beijing.

“The boundary between AI safety and AI competition is becoming increasingly blurred,” added Sun, who has discussed AI with US counterparts. “If every safety question becomes interpreted through the lens of strategic competition, meaningful dialogue will be difficult.”

In the summit lead up, Communist Party officials have also aired their own concerns over the rapid development of AI. Over the weekend, China’s top spy Chen Yixin published one of his nation’s most detailed accounts of Beijing’s own fears over AI, with a focus on regime security. In the article, he stated misuse by adversaries could threaten China’s political and ideological security as well as critical infrastructure.

China’s cyberspace regulator on Monday released an updated AI safety governance framework to address emerging risks as the technology evolves. The framework warns AI is making cyberattacks more scalable and sophisticated, and calls for vigilance over whether the speed of technological development could exceed human expectations and control. The Foreign Ministry’s response suggests Beijing, and the country’s AI industry, will continue to chart its own course. Unlike some of their American counterparts, China’s top AI executives have largely refrained from calling for brakes on AI development as a safeguard.

New way to address key quantum computing challenge developed

AMITABH SINHA
New Delhi, September 14

SCIENTISTS AT THE Quantum Information and Computing (QuIC) laboratory at Raman Research Institute in Bengaluru have demonstrated a novel way to increase the stability of the quantum states that enable computation in a quantum computer that can potentially improve the reliability and integrity of these calculations.

Unlike traditional computers that encode electric states into 0s and 1s to store and process information, quantum computers make use of the very unique, but counter-intuitive, properties of the quantum world to carry out calculations.

One of these happens to be “quantum entanglement,” a remarkable property of the quantum world in which two particles, after undergoing an interaction, get “linked” (or entangled) together in such a way that they begin to behave like one single system. Measuring certain properties of one reveals information about corresponding properties of the other, irrespective of the distance between the two.

Scientists have used this, along with some other special properties like superposition — the ability of quantum particles to exist in multiple states at the same time — to build powerful quantum computers which can perform certain very complex computations in an efficient manner.

But the quantum states that give superpowers to these computers are themselves very fragile and ephemeral. The entangled state, for example, disintegrates very quickly on interaction with the external environment, a phenomenon known as decoherence. Sometimes, entanglement vanishes abruptly, too, even before the normal disintegration takes place. Scientists call this condition “entanglement sudden death.”

Quantum computers use very unique, but counter-intuitive, properties of the quantum world to carry out calculations

This weakness creates a problem for quantum computing. The integrity of the calculations becomes doubtful. Scientists have tried to deal with this challenge by carrying out repeated corrective interventions that delay decoherence. But these repetitive interventions have their own side-effects. They are costly, and can introduce errors of their own.

This is where the research team of Urbasi Sinha, group leader of the lab at RRI, has achieved a breakthrough. Instead of repetitive operations, her team has developed a new technique that deals with decoherence in this context through a “single-shot operation.”

Depending on the instant when the operation is carried out, this operation can delay decoherence and entirely avoid sudden death.

Applied at some other instant, this operation can even hasten decoherence, though it is not an outcome that is scientifically desirable. This operation, therefore, gives scientists greater control over the different possibilities.

“To me, the heart of the result is that that the timing of the operation is not just an experimental detail, it can be a control resource,” said Sinha, a senior professor at RRI. She said her experiments presented a proof of concept, something that has relevance to the problem of decoherence, rather than a complete solution. It would need to be tested out by different quantum computing systems to see how advantageously it can be applied in different environments.

Himalayas approaching tipping point, livelihoods at stake: Report

REUTERS
Hong Kong, September 14

THE HIMALAYAS ARE approaching a tipping point as glaciers melt faster than a decade ago, threatening water security as the region approaches “peak water” by mid-century, according to a study released this month.

The findings come after the collapse of a Himalayan glacier in late August along the Nepal-Tibet border, which caused cascading landslides and flash floods in the valleys below. At least 1,300 people have been confirmed dead and more than 5,300 are missing across Nepal and China’s Tibet region.

As glaciers retreat, they are leaving behind unstable glacial lakes held back by little more than loose rock and ice, above valleys where millions of people live, the study found.

The study was produced by Systemiq, a sustainability advisory firm, together with the Integrated Mountain Initiative, the International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development, and India’s G.B. Pant National Institute of Himalayan Environment.

Himalayan glacier mass loss had accelerated in recent decades, while only 21 glaciers were currently monitored on the ground out of an estimated 40,000 glaciers across the Hindu Kush-Himalaya region, a vast mountain system spanning eight countries from Afghanistan to Myanmar, the study found.

Close to 200 glacial lakes in India had been identified as high risk, with 56 classified as “very high risk,” leaving millions exposed downstream.
